GERMANS DEMAND IMMEDIATE ARMISTICE, ALLIES REFUSE

Paris, Nov. 8 (1:30 P. M.).—The German armistice delegates demanded an immediate suspension of hostilities, but the demand was refused by the allies, it was officially announced here today.

London, Nov. 8 (3 P. M.)—The German envoys received the armistice terms this morning and must accept or reject them before 11 o'clock Monday morning, said a French wireless dispatch this afternoon.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Germany's acceptance or rejection of the armistice terms of the allies will be known to the world not later than Monday night. That she must accept is regarded by officials here as a foregone conclusion. Practically all of northern Germany now is in revolution. Only an immediate end of the war can prevent a reign of bloodshed in the German empire that will eclipse that which brought Russia to her present plight.

The official report of the proceedings of the conference between the German armistice delegates and Field Marshal Foch will be made public as soon as available. President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing, resentful of the manner in which the American people yesterday were misled, have taken steps to see that the people get the truth and all of the truth at as early a moment as is possible.

The President himself will make a statement when the armistice terms are agreed to. And Secretary Lansing took occasion this afternoon officially to deny the various reports that charged the United States government with holding back cable dispatches dealing with the conferences.

The German delegates went into conference with the allied generalissimo at 9 a. m. today, according to an official report from Colonel E. M. House to the State Department. Their credentials were accepted and it is assumed that they were then furnished with the official copy of the armistice demands agreed upon by the Versailles allied war council.

These carried with them a time limit of seventy-two hours should the German plenipotentiaries believe it necessary for them to communicate with Berlin on any of the demands. If this time is necessary, then their decision will probably not be available until Monday. If they have complete power to act and decide to do so, then their decision may be communicated to Field Marshal Foch at any moment.

That decision will be made public here in Washington as soon as it is officially communicated. The President and Mr. Lansing have both said so.

And with the decision, if it accepts the terms laid down by the allies as is expected, will be made public the text of these terms.

BERLIN ALARMED BY REVOLUTION

London, Nov. 8 (2:10 p. m.)—The German naval base at Heligoland, the chief German naval centre, has joined the revolution as well as Tilsit and Borkum, said a dispatch to the Evening News today. Eleven German naval bases have now gone over to the revolutionaries. The revolution has extended to Eckernforde, Hadorsleben and Flensburg, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. Four German warships have arrived at the last named place, joining the revolt. Other German warships that left Kiel have arrived at Flensburg in Schleswig. The revolutionaries have taken the aerodrome at Apenrade.

Berlin has ordered the stoppage of all telegraphic communication with foreign countries except government telegrams. Hard fighting is reported in progress in Hamburg.

Revolution is spreading rapidly through North Germany. Hamburg, Kiel, Wilhelmshaven, Cuxhaven, Bremerhaven, and other important cities, have been seized by the revolutionists. The movement has been generally peaceful says one dispatch. Apparently the revolution is similar to that in Russia before the Czar was overthrown.

There has been fighting in some places, principally Hamburg, where it is reported women joined the revolutionists and fought the regular troops. Submarine crews have deserted in many instances and joined the rebels.

A council of soldiers has been formed at Bremen.

The red flag is reported flying over warships and public buildings at Wilhelmshaven.

One dispatch says that Prince Henry, brother of the Kaiser, fled from Kiel in an automobile and that the rebels fired several volleys at him.

All of the towns mentioned as under control of the revolutionists are important ports. Kiel, on the famous Kiel Canal, is in the province of Schleswig-Holstein. Wilhelmshaven is in the province of Hanover. Cuxhaven is on the estuary of the Elbe River, Bremerhaven is on the Weser River, Rensburg is in Holstein province.

Lansing Denies Report That News Is Held Up

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Statements that dispatches relating to the armistice conferences in France between Field Marshal Foch and the German plenipotentiaries are being held up on the cables and held back from the American people are "utterly false." Secretary of State Lansing, in so characterizing them this afternoon, did so on the authority of President Wilson himself. The secretary said:

"I am requested and authorized by the President to state that no information reaching this government concerning the armistice negotiations in France has been withheld; that any statement to the contrary is utterly false, and that as soon as a definite decision in regard to the armistice has been reached it will immediately be made public by the government."

BULLETINS!

Washington, Nov. 8.—It was officially announced by Secretary of State Lansing today that the German armistice commissioners went into conference with Field Marshal Foch at 9 o'clock this morning (Paris time).

London, Nov. 8.—The Kaiser will abdicate tomorrow, according to the newspaper Politiken, published in Copenhagen, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from there today. The dispatch added that a majority of the parties in Berlin had unanimously decided to demand the Kaiser's resignation.

London, Nov. 8.—The Agencia Liberia publishes a report in Rome that the Kaiser is willing to resign if all other reigning sovereigns and princes abdicate simultaneously, according to a Central News dispatch.

Paris, Nov. 8 (2 p. m.)—Sedan will be wholly in the hands of the French and Americans within a few hours if it has not already been taken, said an Agence Radio dispatch from the front this afternoon. The capture of the western outskirts of Sedan was announced yesterday.

WILL NOT USE BIG ARMORY AS HOSPITAL

Commonwealth Armory will not be used as a hospital, it was officially announced today by Colonel Louis Breechemin, department surgeon of the Northeast.

"There is nothing for a hospital as far as equipments are concerned. We have at our disposal other places which will be used as in case of emergency," explained the colonel.

"There is no truth that Commonwealth Armory will be diverted from its original purposes."

DRAFT PROGRAM UNCHANGED IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Nov. 8.—There has been no change in the draft program. This was stated officially at the War Department this afternoon when it became known that reports were being circulated that Provost Marshal General Crowder would suspend the November draft call.

ADMIRAL TAKES BLAME FOR TRUCE HOAX

New York, Nov. 8.—The United Press today issued the following statement:

"Brest, France, Nov. 8.—Admiral Wilson, U. S. N., commander of the American forces in French waters, today made the following statement for the information of United Press editors:

"This statement of the United Press relative to the signing of the armistice was made public from my office on the basis of what appeared to be official and authoritative information.

"I am in a position to know that the United Press and its representative acted in perfect good faith, and that the premature announcement was the result of an error, for which the agency was in no wise responsible."

EXTRA! EXTRA!

Paris, Nov. 8.—When the German parliamentarians arrived at the headquarters of Marshal Foch this morning formal demand for an armistice was made, the official announcement says. The text of the allies' conditions were then read to the German envoys and a copy handed to them. It was then that the request for immediate cessation of hostilities was made. The refusal followed.

HANOVER JOINS GERMAN REVOLUTION

London, Nov. 8 (3:37 p. m.)—German revolutionaries have seized Hanover, in Prussia, according to the Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph this afternoon. The revolutionaries control all of northwestern Germany. Machine gunners that were sent into the German province of Schleswig-Holstein to quell the revolution decided to join the rebels.

PROTEST MOVEMENT OF BAVARIANS IN AUSTRIA

By Agence Radio to the International News Service.

Berne, Nov. 8.—A semi-official announcement was issue din Vienna today stating that the national council has formulated a written protest against the movements of Bavarian troops. Two battalions of Bavarians arrived at Salsburg and wished to continue into the mountains, but the director of military transport refused to give authority. The Bavarian commander demanded that a railway be placed at the disposal of his men. The railway military director refused and drew up the protest. The Bavarians are continuing in the direction of the Schwart-Dach-Stweit line.

MORE GERMAN CITIES JOIN REBELS

By International News Service.

London, Nov. 8 (1 p. m.)—Practically the whole of northern Germany is now controlled by revolutionaries, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today. The revolutionaries dominate Sonderburg, Kiel, Wilhelmshaven, Cuxhaven, Bremerhaven and Rendsburg.

Prince Henry, brother of the Kaiser, left Kiel in a speeding motor car. Forces wearing red bands upon their arms forced the Prince to give them a lift, but they were knocked from the running board by sailors.

The revolutionaries fired volleys at the automobile, but it is not known whether they wounded the Prince or not.

The Third Infantry Regiment at Oldenburg, the aerodrome forces at Plankenstein, the sailors at Flensburg and the men attached to the naval station at Murvich joined the revolution.

The revolution has been comparatively peaceful. Soldiers and sailors met and voted in the cities, following the example set at Kiel.

The red flag is flying over wharves and ships at Wilhelmshaven. The German commanders agreed to relinquish their power providing that the revolutionaries would promise to defend Germany in the event of a British attack, according to the dispatch.

In Hamburg the revolutionists gained control of the city after twenty-four hours of street fighting. They have hoisted the red flag on all vessels in the harbor. It is reported they are also in control of Warnemunde.

Submarine crews in German ports deserted and engaged in the conflict with loyal troops.

The German high seas fleet at Kiel has disappeared.

Copenhagen dispatches spoke of its whereabouts as "being a mystery."

Karl Liebknecht, Socialist leader, who was recently released from prison, has formed a Council of Soldiers at Bremen.

The revolution created much enthusiasm at Bromen, where the church bells were tolled in celebration.

Strict German censorship prevents the Berlin newspapers from publishing any unofficial dispatches about the uprisings, said another Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

The Tageblatt says that Berlin is quiet, but that the Socialist leaders, Liebknecht and Hoffman, are organizing mass meetings.

The council formed at Kiel by the workmen and soldiers is maintaining order.

Nervousness is widespread through all of Schleswig-Holstein, where numerous prisoners were released

FRENCH PUSHING DRIVE ALONG WHOLE FRONT

By International News Service.

Paris, Nov. 8.—The French advanced along their entire front today and have reached Liart, nineteen miles north of Rethel, the War Office announced today. Fifteen hundred more prisoners and much booty have been taken.

The communique follows:

"Our progress has continued this morning over the entire front. Advanced elements reached Liart, thirty kilometres north of Rethel. More to the right, before daybreak this morning, was captured Designy and Francois. The suburbs of Sedan were penetrated. The total prisoners taken yesterday number over 1,500. The booty is increasing."

British Rapidly Encircling Strong Maubeuge Fortress

By International News Service.

London, Nov. 8 (11:20 a. m.)—British troops are swiftly encircling the powerful fortress of Maubeuge, near the Franco-Belgian frontier.

The War Office today announced the capture of three more villages and said that fighting is continuing.

The advance is south of the Mons-Conde Canal, the official statement said.

The text of the War Office report follows:

"We have captured Eclaires, Limont-Fontaine and Yeseve, south of Hautmont. The advance continues south of the Mons-Conde Canal."

TO APPEAL WAR BOARD MAN'S DECISION AT LYNN

Representatives of the workers in the General Electric Company of Lynn today notified William L. Stoddard, investigator for the National War Labor Board, they would appeal his decision relating to the case of the blacksmiths who were discharged yesterday. The labor leaders maintain the blacksmiths were discriminated against by the foreman, but Stoddard decided otherwise. Stoddard met with organizers and leaders today and discussed questions of shop conditions. Each department of the company will elect a shop committee to adjust prices and shop conditions with the department heads (foremen and subforemen). If they cannot agree the National Board will decide.

WOMEN GET RECRUITS FOR THE 'GAS HOUNDS'

"Come and sign up on the motor truck!" Starting from Corps Headquarters on Beacon street, today, the "Gas Hounds," in motor trucks set out for recruits. Leading the procession, established in a motor truck turned into a temporary recruiting office, Mrs. R. B. Shaw sat at the desk and signed 'em up, inside the truck. Motor wagons visited various factories about Boston in the noon hour, adding many new members to the "Gas Hounds."

'PEACE' WINS FREE BEER FOR WOCESTER THIRSTY

Worcester, Nov. 8.—For the first time within the memory of the oldest inhabitant bartenders refused to take money for beers here. This period of unalloyed bliss lasted but thirty minutes, but it was an immortal thirty minutes. Moved to unprecedented generosity by the news that "peace" was at hand, a couple of local liquor dealers gave strict orders to their bartenders to serve all drinks free for thirty minutes. All records for quick consumption were broken.

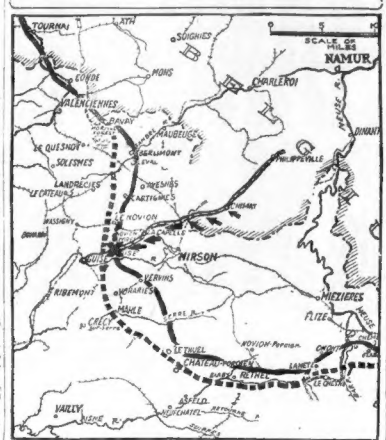
ROAD GERMAN ENVOYS HAD TO TAKE TO MEET FOCH



Marshal Foch notified the Germans that if their armistice envoys wished to meet him and ask for a cessation of hostilities they must advance by way of the road from Chimay in Belgium along the Guise road in France, as shown in the map. They had to advance along this road to a point four miles southwest of La Capelle and just outside the allied battle line. There they were received and conducted to the place fixed for the interview.

FITZ WOULD STOP DRAFT WITH TRUCE

In a telegram to Secretary of War Baker today Congressman-elect John F. Fitzgerald asks that the entrainment of the draftees due to start for future camps next Monday and after be stopped with the signing of the armistice. He asserts the 32,000 men scheduled to go from Massachusetts are not needed, and their going would be an unnecessary hardship.

The telegram reads:

"Hon. Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.—If an armistice is declared within the next forty-eight hours which makes Germany powerless would suggest that you consider advisability of directing Crowder to stop entrainment of registrants now under orders to start for various camps during five-day period beginning Nov. 11. There are twenty-two thousand of them in Massachusetts. With two million abroad and hundreds of thousands already in camps in this country this force should be ample. Taking additional men at this time, particularly when they are needed, will cause great disturbance to business and labor and unnecessary hardship to these men who go away for a short time. When they return their places are filled by people who will necessarily be displaced. This is just a suggestion to a very busy man whom I hope will consider it in the proper light.

"JOHN F. FITZGERALD."

SEDAN HEAVILY BOMBARDED BY GERMANS

By BERT FORD,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army North of Verdun, Nov. 8 (3 p. m.)—German artillery is heavily bombarding Sedan (the western outskirts of which is now in American hands).

Peace negotiations have not impaired the valor and enthusiasm of the Americans' crushing advance.

Tremendous interest has been aroused in the past forty-eight hours by the visit of the German parliamentaires for an armistice and rumors are flying thick.

The only official report was to the effect that the Germans had arrived at the place designated by Marshal Foch.

There was intense artillery and machine gun activity on both sides during the morning along the Meuse River.

German Prisoners Say They're Surprised That Truce Has Been Delayed

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army North of Verdun, Nov. 8 (3 p. m.)—German prisoners captured today and told of the armistice conference expressed surprise that a truce had not been signed earlier. They said that Germany was exhausted and was compelled to use oxen to haul artillery and army vehicles because of the scarcity of horses. The prisoners knew of the collapse of Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey.

Enemy roads leading to Metz are choked with retreating forces. The Germans are burning and evacuating towns North of Stenay and east of Lion-Dovant-Dun.

Sedan is burning. The Germans are strongly entrenching themselves on the heights beyond Martincourt.

IPSWICH MAN, 35, HELD FOR ABDUCTING GIRL OF 15

Charged with abduction, Alexander Mitchell, thirty-five, of Ipswich, was arraigned in the municipal court today and his case continued until next Tuesday. His arrest followed the disappearance last Saturday of Louisa Moass, fifteen, who left her father and mother waiting in the South Station and did not return. It is alleged that Mitchell took her to a room in Lynn, intending to marry her. The girl was held as a delinquent child.

BELGIAN DRIVE LIBERATING HOME LAND

PEASANTS STOLIDLY CLING TO HOMES

Animals, Too, Seem to Have Become Accustomed to Horrors of War

Belgian Army Headquarters, Nov. 8.—It is now possible to give some details of the smashing Belgian offensive which broke loose at dawn of the last day of October, and which is still in full swing, with a pause now and then necessitated by consolidation and transport problems.

Preliminary to the big drive guns bellowed along a front of nearly forty miles, facing the Lys Canal. King Albert is in personal command. The whole strength of the Belgian army was pitted against the last barrier defending ancient Ghent with Brussels, the capital, beyond.

The German troops are shut off from communication with the rest of the world. No newspapers, no wires, are permitted to reach them. The general staff alone knows the progress of events elsewhere. But rumors of the Turkish armistice and of the Austrian collapse speed across the dreary expanse of the battlefields, from division to division.

When the offensive opened in the misty half-light of dawn, every Belgian soldier cherished the belief that this is to be the last grapple. King Albert's soldiers entered into action firmly determined to strike the final smashing blow to bring back freedom to their enslaved homeland.

DEADLOCK FOR TEN DAYS.

For ten days the lines faced each other in a deadlock from the vicinity of Eecloo southward to beyond Ghent. Prior to his retreat the enemy felled hundreds of trees to block the roads and blew up scores of bridges. But the terrific Belgian preparatory fire along the whole line attested the supreme effort to clear the roads and bring up the "heavies" in the wake of the infantry.

For a whole hour the Eastern horizon flamed red. Black geysers along the banks of the canal marked where the shells blew sand bank emplacements to their heaps and ripped the tile-roofed farm-furts to pieces. Then, at 5:25, rockets signalled the infantry to advance.

The Prussians opposite must have felt it was a forlorn hope, but they fought desperately. Their counter-battery work was weak, however. The Germans are known to suffer from a shortage of artillery. But the machine gunners fought to the death. They fell back across the canal only when the rising mists disclosed the unbroken Belgian advance.

After the outposts had withdrawn, the enemy drenched the western bank of the canal with poison gas, which hung low because of the mists. They formed a poison barrage zone along the whole west bank.

Into this poison belt rushed the Belgians behind their artillery barrage. They crossed the canal twice and were driven twice by couner attacks. Then the Belgian artillery was signaled to play a hose-stream of fire along the German front line. Throughout the afternoon big guns launched an inferno of death across the canal along a line of forty miles.

The clouds were hanging low and drizzling rain prevented the war birds from observing. In the early morning a flock of twelve German machines made a short cruise over the Belgian positions. Lacking fire control, the German guns contented themselves with sending shells and gas over the known crossroads. But the fire was returned tenfold.

PEASANTS CLING TO HOMES.

The most amazing feature of this battle is presented by the thousands of peasants clinging persistently to their homes in the midst of inferno. Touching tragedies are revealed. Numerous back-bent, gnarled Flemings are living close to the battlefield, with their cows and chickens. After four years of suffering under the invader's tyranny, they are awaking again to freedom. But this freedom is born in the smoke of their burning farms and heralded by bursts of shell and shrapnel overhead.

Many of these Belgian inhabitants are seeing the Belgian khaki-tasseled bonnets for the first time since October, 1914, only after running the gantlet into the zone of fire and death, snatching glimpses of the liberators through the shell bursts amid their own fields.

Walking with some Belgian officers while the Belgian 75s mixed their roar with the heavy rumbling of the enemy guns and the shells criss-crossing overhead with weird screams, I came across a white-capped Belgian grandmother of at least eighty summers. In one hand she carried the inevitable umbrella, and in the other a bird cage. One of my companions quizzed her in Flemish.

"They turned me out, sir," said she, "our brave Belgians said I must go away, because the house was needed. I shouted with gladness when our soldiers came, sir, but they all have muddy boots, and the house was cleaned only yesterday."

Less than a mile from the canal, while the machine guns were yapping angrily nearby, a peasant family gathered about a small fire behind their uproofed home, cooking dinner. Even their dog paid no attention to the shell bursts less than 200 yards away.

"You see," said one of the officers, "the peasants cling to their homes as very God."

DORCHESTER IS READY TO GREET WAR HERO

Mrs. Mary E. McCloskey, Mother of Boston's youngest war hero, who is anxiously awaiting his return home, to which he has been "invalided" from France.

By ELIZABETH ELLAM.

Terence McCloskey is coming home! Hendry street in Dorchester knows he's coming, and is busy today washing its windows, hanging its best lace curtains and getting dressed up for the occasion. For Terence belongs to Hendry street and its mighty proud of him, today!

And who is Terence? You don't know?

Then you don't live in Dorchester or you'd know that he's Mrs. McCloskey's boy, that he's "the kid" that would never go to school, that would never stay in the house—and that always wanted to be "in it with the gang." That's Terence.

WANTED TO BE IN IT.

And that's just the reason that Terence, known as the youngest hero of the Hub, went into the service when he wasn't fifteen years old. There was a big scrap going on over there, and he wanted to be in it.

When the 101st marched away, Terence went with them—and he took the heart of the Dorchester home with him—Lord love him. Since he marched away things have happened to Terence, things have been happening pretty much of the time. He's been "in it" just as he always was at home, until now, bearing the scars of German bayonets upon his body, he is "invalided home." They say I'm all busted up and not fit to be a soldier, Ma," he writes to the mother that's waiting for him there.

"My Terence started for home today," she told me, "so I suppose he'll be here soon now. But he didn't want to come, and I think he didn't even know he was coming, for he sent his coupon for his Christmas box, so that he'd have his Christmas with the rest of the boys. It came the day before the telegram saying that he was being sent home."

WAITING TO IDOLIZE SON.

In the Hendry street home a widowed mother, a brother, just a bit older, and a fourteen-year-old "kid" brother are waiting to idolize the boy who is even now on that wide blue ocean that rolls for miles and miles between here and the shores of France.

The mother waits, with eagerness and eyes just wet—because her boy has been hurt and she doesn't know just how badly—the older brother, with pride bristling in every word, as he tells about "the kid"—and the schoolboy brother, waiting for the stories that he knows are on the way. How those other guys will envy him when his brother gets back; how they will hang around the corner to catch a glimpse of the limping lad in olive drab! Gee, it's great to have a brother that's a fighter!

And the fighters? From the mother's letters there's hardly been a minute that there wasn't something doing with Terence.

"He said in one of his letters that he was writing a letter right next another boy, and he was called away—and what did happen? You tell it, John"—she appeals to the brother—and so the tale of Terry becomes a family symposium.

"Well," John picks up the narrative, "Terry was writing next to this fellow, and a man called to him to take the horses away from the hut. Terry left his leter and went to obey—and when he came back his letter was not touched—but the other boy was dead. A shot had killed him—and there were just seven words written in that letter to his sweetheart. Terry sent the letter home. This is what it said: 'Dear Alice—I've been in France now three days'—and the Hun shell bearing the poor lad's name and address wrote 'Finis' to the letter.

PERSHING'S MEN GAIN ALONG MEUSE

Washington, Nov. 8.—General Pershing's official communique No. 190 says:

"The First American Army continued its offensive, starting with a precarious footing on the east bank of the Meuse, in a region of unusual natural difficulties and defended by an enemy rendered desperate by the knowledge that the heights north of Verdun were vital to his plan.

"The fifth division and national guard troops from Wisconsin and Michigan, employed in this operation, have slowly but steadily fought their way throughout these days of continuous battle. In this region we now hold Mont Devant-Dun, the heights overlooking Brandeville, three kilometres east of Haraumont, Silion-Fontaine farm, and thence southeast to the old line.

"The Rainbow Division and units of the first division seized the heights south and southeast of Sedan and the suburbs of that city lying on the west bank of the Meuse. The entire region between the Meuse and the Bar has now been liberated by the First American Army in close co-operation with the French Fourth Army.

"In the Woevre the troops of our Second Army have executed a number of highly successful raids, entering the enemy's lines and returning with fifty prisoners.

"The number of guns of all calibres taken by the First American Army since November 1 now exceeds 250. A partial count of captured munitions and material shows more than 2,000 machine guns, over 5,000 rifles, 15 trench mortars, many anti-tank guns, several hundred thousand rounds of artillery munitions, nearly three million rounds of small arms ammunition and much other material.

"A regiment of American infantry particularly distinguished itself in the final victories in Italy."

HEAVY RAINS FAIL TO HALT BRITISH

By JOHN T. PARKERSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the British Army on the Western Front, Nov. 6.—Delayed—Heavy rains are falling on the British front, but they are not retarding the steady advance of the allied troops to any extent.

With at least three German divisions reduced to meagre battalions and others in confusion, the Boches are not offering their old-time determined resistance.

Preparations for demolition behind the German lines have been completed in a big area. The railway east of Mons has been blown up. The position of the Germans opposite the new British front is constantly becoming more precarious.

The number of prisoners and captured guns in the hands of the British is constantly increasing and evidence is accumulating of the decreasing German morale in spite of the efforts of the German high command to bolster it up, on the pretext that better armistice terms would be obtained.

An unmailed letter home, taken from a German prisoner, is typical of the almost general feeling in the German army.

It said, in part:

"Our people are going over to the enemy in companies. If things continue to go like this Tommy will be in Berlin by Christmas. There is nothing doing by the Prussians anywhere. I never saw such a mess up as our infantry is in."

British troops who have been in the thickest of the fight describe the Germans as a disorganized mass, except in a few instances, which is significant in view of the new British, Americans and French victories.

Airmen report large scattered movements of German transports east and northeast of Tournay, which the enemy will be forced to give up soon.

Bring Him Home Clean

IF AN armistice is signed and the war comes to a sudden end — then the need for you to give to the United War Work Campaign will be vastly more urgent even than it is now.

Because that boy whom you sent across the sea—clean and wholesome and manly—will not return for many long months; months which will be filled with days upon days of utter loneliness and monotony.

The excitement of battle will have gone. Reaction will soon set in. Then must come endless hours of nothing interesting to do — with desolation, depressing sights, temptation on every side.

If he wanted the amusement, books, movies, athletics and the companionship that were given to him during his fighting days by the seven War Work Organizations — he will want them a thousand times more while awaiting his turn to come home.

It is the purpose of these organizations to stay with that boy —entertain him, educate him, befriend him—surround him with so many good influences that he will have no opportunity to even notice the evil ones that bid for his attention.

It is their purpose to bring him back to you as clean and wholesome and manly as when he went away.

To accomplish that purpose at least $170,500,000 must be raised. Authorities say that $250,000,000 will be needed. So it is your duty to give every dollar you can possibly spare. Prepare now to give to your utmost.

$10,000 IS GOAL OF CHRISTMAS FUND DRIVE

Children Help American in Plan to Buy Dinners for the Poor

The poor of Boston are still fighting for existence against the rising prices of food, clothing, rents and coal.

There is no armistice possible in this fight and it has been the mission of the Boston AMERICAN'S Christmas Basket Fund to enable the public, through this fund, to help poor widows and children on Christmas Day.

This fund has now been opened for its fifth year for a week and already nearly one thousand dollars has been added by subscription to the thousand dollars originally subscribed by the Boston AMERICAN.

It will take more than two thousand dollars this year to provide Christmas dinners for the known cases of destitution already filed with the secretary of the Christmas Basket Fund.

$10,000 IS NEEDED.

Ten thousand will be nearer.

The junior committee of the fund is starting in well. Boys and girls were quick to see the chance to help some poorer person and are now canvassing the city for dimes and quarters to add to the fund.

Boys and girls who secure these contributions are being furnished buttons by the Boston AMERICAN, which allow to everybody that they are engaged in this good work. In a very short time these buttons will be seen everywhere. Send in your subscription and get your button before the boy next door.

A large number of letters endorsing this fund are arriving at the office of the Boston American. Some of these are printed below.

TUFTS ENDORSES FUND.

"Boston AMERICAN.

"Gentlemen:

"I take pleasure in enclosing a check which I shall be glad to have you accept for the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston AMERICAN. The purpose is most worthy and should be liberally supported.

"My only regret is that I cannot send you a more substantial contribution, but, as you well realize, the demands on us all at this time are many and ponderous.

"With best wishes for your continued success, I beg to remain,

"Yours very truly,

"NATHAN A. TUFTS."

"Boston AMERICAN,

"Gentlemen:—

"Far more than in previous years, the necessity for your Christmas basket fund, must be apparent to everyone. There are many unhappy families, made so on account of the terrible war in which this country is engaged, and no less so on account of the very recent and serious attack of influenza which has spread over the country, leaving many families desolate.

"The fact that the wage earner, whether the father or brothers in many families are away from home or have been victim of the dread disease, has left many mothers and their little ones very much in need of help at this time. You are certainly to be commended for making an extra effort this year, and I heartily recommend your appeal to the favorable consideration of our citizens.

"I take pleasure in enclosing my personal contribution to the fund.

(Signed) EDWARD W. QUINN,
Mayor of Cambridge."

Xmas Buttons for Boys and Girls Who Aid Fund

Boys and girls, don't you want to collect dimes and quarters for the Xmas Basket Fund?

This fund will provide Christmas dinners for hundreds of poor widows and children.

The AMERICAN will give a button to each boy and girl who brings or sends a contribution.

Get one of these buttons early, because soon everybody will be wearing one.

Bring or send contributions to the Boston AMERICAN Christmas Basket Fund, Boston ADVERTISER-AMERICAN office, Little Building, Boylston street.

Gov.-Elect Coolidge Gives Aid to the Xmas Fund

Calvin Coolidge, Governor-elect of Massachusetts, sends the following letter endorsing the Boston AMERICAN'S Christmas Basket Fund:

Editor AMERICAN:

Although I have felt that everything I could give in these days should go to war charities, I know it is necessary to remind the needy at home that this war is for their protection and that while we are carrying it on they are not to be forgotten.

Very truly yours,
CALVIN COOLIDGE.

SARDINE PLANT CRIPPLED BY CYLINDER EXPLOSION

Eastport, Me., Nov. 8.—As the result of a cylinder head blow-out of a large steam engine early today, the big double sardine factory of the Seacoast Canning Company, with a daily output of 100 hogsheads of herring and 4,000 cases of sardines, has been crippled and 500 employes temporarily thrown out of work. No one was injured.

AUTOIST KILLS BOY ON WHEEL IN NORWOOD

Henry J. Young of May street, Walpole, while driving his automobile through Norwood ran into a boy on a bicycle. The boy, whose identity has not been established, died in the Norwood Hospital an hour later. Young was arraigned in the Dedham District Court today and held in $500 bail for a continuance of the case until November 18.

MISSES' SHOPS Fourth Floor Filene's GIRLS' SHOPS Fourth Floor

EVERY fourth floor shop has prepared treats as good as the misses' $25 suits sketched above. The misses' suit shop is a specialty shop—no matter how busy it may be its gray matter is still concentrated exclusively on misses' suits.

Suit number 1 is a wool velours buckle suit, $25
Suit number 2 is a gunniburl Norfolk, $25
Suit number 3 is a practical oxford tailormade, $25
Suit number 4 is a tailormade of check velours, $25
Suit number 5 is a surplice style in velours, $35

Filene's—mail orders filled—fourth floor

Misses' round-neck velveteen frocks, $15

Simple and untrimmed except for their flesh-colored satin monk collars and fringed messaline sashes.

Velveteen makes splendid cold-weather frocks—it is so warm.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fourth floor

"TOM THUMB" —a new ruffled blouse for women, $4

The blouses are crepe de Chine—pink or white. The neck boasts an unusual collar—flat, round ruffled. Tiny ruffles give the cuffs an uncommon look. Sizes 36 to 44.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor.

Misses' warm utility coats, $29.75

They're made of warm soft diagonal English tweed mixtures, very mannish indeed—the kind that wear and wear. Little splashes of red, violet and yellow run all through the mixture.

They're roomy and cozy with their big collars that fit as snugly as cabbage leaves.

They have very good-looking pockets, pressed to give effect of loose pockets. They have a military pleat at back; also all-around, buckled trench belts.

All of these considerations make them very excellent coats for street, sport or auto. Neither rain nor snow would make much of an impression on coats like these. $29.75

Who pays for charge accounts?

(We are not talking about any special store, but ALL stores)

Everybody pays for charge accounts. The stores do not pay for them, or, rather, they pass on the cost of charge accounts through "general expense" to a slight increase in the price of every article they sell.

This increase is not a large amount per article. In many instances, you would need a Chinese coin—or in other words, a fraction of a cent—to express it.

But, in the aggregate, this tiny cost mounts up into a mighty respectable amount. For instance, here at Filene's, the cost of handling charge business is over $100,000 a year, and in some stores it is undoubtedly very much larger than this.

The new Filene policy which takes effect December 1, charging 50c per month for the active use of charge accounts, does not bring the store any extra profit. It merely shifts the cost of charge business from the general public to the shoulders of the people who incur it.

Having goods charged is a privilege—only folks have been free to do it for so long that it is hard for them to realize this. The new Filene policy is based on the democratic principle of fair play. Each person pays for what he gets, and for ONLY what he gets. When this fact is generally understood, Filene's will be by no means the only store where this fair, equal-favors-to-all-and-special-favors-to-none policy will prevail.

Women's fur-trimmed winter suits, $20

When did you hear of good suits for $20?

These are of wool velours, collars of taupe dyed coney. They're fully lined with satin and interlined.

Style is good-looking, belted with inset pockets.

Skirts shirred and belted at back.

There are good cheviots, gabardines and oxfords also for as little as $20.

Tomorrow, 46th Anniversary of Big Fire

Forty-six years ago tomorrow Boston was visited by the greatest fire that was ever known in its history, and that placed it in a class to which only three other cities in the United States compete for honors. Chicago, Boston, San Francisco and Baltimore have the record for the most disastrous fires on this continent. The fire broke out on November 9, 1872, at the corner of Summer and Kingston streets. The first alarm was given at 7:34 o'clock, and by 8 o'clock a general alarm had been sounded and assistance sought from every city and town within a radius of fifty miles.

The fire area covered 65 acres of land, destroying 709 brick and stone buildings and 67 wooden buildings in the thirty hours in which it raged.

The damage to buildings and merchandise together was estimated at upwards of $50,000,000.

Insufficient water supply and the fact that almost every horse in the city was sick with a disease known as "epizootic" were the combined reasons for the headway that the fire gained.

WITHIN ONE MINUTE AFTER HE ENTERS THE THEATRE—AND HE VISITS THE PLAYHOUSE FREQUENTLY — WOODROW WILSON FORGETS THAT HE IS PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES. "President Wilson as I Know Him," by T. P. O'Connor, M. P., in the Sunday ADVERTISER-AMERICAN.

GIVEN 6 MONTHS FOR ILLEGAL VOTING

Augustus Runcy, twenty-one, of Genesee street, South End, received a six months' sentence today by Judge Murray in the municipal court on a charge of illegal voting. According to the charge preferred by Warden Oliver Elliot of Precinct 3, Ward 6, Runcy voted at 2 p. m. on Tuesday under the name of Joseph Furfary of Dover street, having already voted under his own name earlier in the day in another precinct.

Judge Murray said: "I have found you guilty of attempting to vote under another man's name, an illegal act. I intend to give you a substantial jail sentence as a warning to others, but in view of your previous good record, which has been investigated, I will suspend sentence."

After a little homily on the secredness of the ballot and a reference to the last presidential election Judge Murray concluded:

"The people of the whole country have faith in the supremacy of the ballot, and when such a wrong as I find you guilty of is committed it is likely to shake their confidence in the integrity of men and in the fairness and stability of our election laws."

NEW YORK IS GROGGY, DAY AFTER

By International News Service.

New York, Nov. 8.—Today was the "morning after" in New York city.

After half a day and a night of frenzied joy over the erroneous report of the signing of an armistice by Germany unusual quiet prevailed here today.

Revellers were trickling into their homes through streets littered with millions of scraps of paper and the remnants of countless horns and other noise-making devices.

The clamor of bells, whistles, horns and cheers which started at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon as hundreds of thousands went delirious with joy lasted long into the night.

The "White Way" saw the biggest night in its history. All street vehicular traffic was stopped on Broadway from Thirty-fourth street to Fifty-ninth street because the crowds were so dense that nothing could break through.

Soldiers and sailors of many nationalities were showered with attentions by everyone. Women kissed them. Men lifted the ban on alcoholic refreshments and supplied them extravagantly.

The temper of the greatest throng the city ever turned loose increased as the night wore on and the news that the armistice story was a deception was realized. Most of the saloons in the city closed their doors at 9:30 voluntarily, and extra details of police were rushed to duty.

The demonstration was not without its casualties. Two people were killed in an automobile accident. Many others were injured and bruised.

Several thousand shipyard workers from Staten Island and Brooklyn continued the "peace" demonstration in New York today. They came to Manhattan Island in ferryboats and steamers, with whistles blowing, and marched through the streets of the down-town district.

The crowd was estimated at more than 20,000. About 8,000 of these were said to be from the Standard shipbuilding plant at Staten Island.

RED CROSS LUNCH ROOM IS ASSISTING MERCY FUND

Miss Sarah Winslow, one of those in charge of the Red Cross lunch room, is shown above. Below are three Red Cross waitresses. From left to right they are: Mrs. George Von L. Meyer, Jr., Miss Polly Davies and Mrs. Phillip B. Weld.

If you lunched at No. 373 Boylston street today it is quite possible that you were shown to a seat by Mrs. John Bowditch of No. 445 Beacon street, the head waitress, and that your lunch was served by either Mrs. John Butler, Mrs. Henry Minot, of Milton; Mrs. R. T. S. Lowell, of Brimmer street; Miss Barbara Hall, Miss Penelope Potter, Miss Dorothy Allen, Miss Katherine L. Lapham, Miss Loeh Wheatland, Miss Irene Patch, Miss Jane Norton, Miss Elizabeth Whiting, Miss Josephine Wilson, Miss Caroline Guild, Miss Constance Ames or Mrs. Philip Weld who were among the forty society maids and matrons who acted as waitresses.

And when you paid your check (hopeless you had the pleasure of paying it to Mrs. Halliday Philbin, who acted as cashier.

The Red Cross Lunch Room, which last year netted more than $12,000 for the Boston chapter of the organization, is open again at the above address and practically all the society folk who served the lunch room last season have returned to their duties. They appeared in new caps and aprons of French blue, with white gowns.

The larger part of the supplies is contributed by various concerns and individuals interested in Red Cross work. The lunch room is open daily, except Sunday, from 11 to 3 o'clock and tea is served in the late afternoon.

DEVENS TABLET FOR HEROES OF AYER CAMP

Bronze Tablet to Be Unveiled Tomorrow; Major Woodriff on Tour

Camp Devens, Ayer, Nov. 8.—Commemorating the valor of the men trained in this cantonment a bronze tablet will be placed over the aperture in the Sweethearts' Monument on the main road tomorrow, it was announced at division headquarters today. The tablet, 36 by 30 inches, is the gift of a Boston concern and was brought here by John O. Bates, a Boston newspaperman. The exercises for the unveiling of the tablet will be in charge of the division staff officers.

Major R. E. Woodriff of the general war office staff in Washington made an inspection of the camp today and will submit a report of his findings to the War Department.

From a reliable source today it was learned that the soldiers in this cantonment would be transferred to a Southern training camp shortly, only a garrison to be maintained here. None of the division officers would confirm the report, however.

RUN DOWN BY MOTOR TRUCK.

Corporal Adolph Keevel of the 225th Motor Truck Company, Quartermaster Corps, was struck and badly injured by a motor truck as he was operating a motorcycle. He is in the base hospital.

An order was promulgated today ordering all officers to enforce regulations regarding draining water from radiators of cars not housed in heated garages.

Lieutenant Sohe J. Houghton, 36th Infantry, has been appointed assistant judge advocate of the general court-martial board recently designated.

Captain John W. Ayotte, 36th Infantry, has been transferred to the 151st Depot Brigade.

The Camp Devens and Camp Merritt football teams will clash at Braves Field tomorrow afternoon.

Lieutenants Lowell L. Kendrick, Stanley F. Belcher and Elmer M. Ellsworth, all of the 151st depot brigade, were today assigned to commands in the Plymouth Division.

OFFICERS ON NEW DUTY.

These officers were relieved from duties in the 12th division and assigned to temporary duty with the following organizations in this cantonment:

Detachment Medical Department, 151st Depot Brigade: Captain Guy V. Briggs, Medical Corps. Lieutenant George L. Gibbons, Medical Corps, 12th Sanitary Train.

Detachment Medical Department, Quartermaster Corps: Captain Arthur Gundlach, Medical Corps, 12th Sanitary Train.

Detachment Medical Department, 444, L. 443d Reserve Labor Battalion, Quartermaster Corps: Captain Ernest M. Seydell, Medical Corps, 73d Infantry.

There were 8,992 men naturalized in this cantonment since the law went into effect on June 24. There were 23 countries represented. Of the men naturalized there were 2 Germans, 15 Austrians, 40 Turks, 261 Italians, 206 Russians and 655 Britishers.

TO CELEBRATE GREAT WALSH VICTORY

Faneuil Hall Meeting and Parade Tuesday Night to Mark Event

The Boston AMERICAN has issued a call for a formal ratification meeting which will be held in Faneuil Hall next Tuesday evening to give fitting recognition to the election of former-Governor David I. Walsh to the United States Senate.

It is expected that Mayor Andrew J. Peters will preside.

An old-fashioned torchlight parade through Boston streets will be one of the spectacular features of the ratification evening.

The election of Mr. Walsh was one of the most significant features of the election day throughout the country.

Despite the most bitter opposition ever offered by one of the strongest Republican State machines Mr. Walsh rode to signal victory.

FIRST DEMOCRAT SINCE '91.

He is the first Democrat to be elected to the United States Senate from Massachusetts since before the Civil War. His election was striking evidence, not only of his tremendous personal popularity, but also of the Bay State's desire to uphold the President's appeal to the voters of the land.

Not only will tribute be paid to the President and the Senator-elect but also to the Democratic Congressmen elected to sit during the next term. Michael F. Phelan of Lynn, Richard Olney, 2d, of Dedham, Elton F. Fitzgerald and James A. Gallivan, of Boston, will come in for their share of the glory.

By no means the least important will be the tribute to Richard H. Long, of Framingham, who went down to a glorious defeat on Tuesday. Mr. Long's accomplishment will be testified to speakers in behalf of the Democratic, independent and progressive voters of the State who voiced their confidence in him Tuesday.

Plans are being perfected in the absence of Senator-elect Walsh, who went to Washington today for a conference with national leaders.

The Senator-elect has received congratulatory telegrams from all sections of the country. Practically every Governor who was in office during the terms Senator Walsh served at the State House have wired their congratulations. Cabinet officers and leading citizens of the country, regardless of political beliefs, have also wired their good wishes.

At Tuesday night's meeting it is expected President Emeritus Charles Elliot of Harvard, Professor Charles Zueblin and E. A. Filene will be among the speakers, in addition to Ex-Governor Walsh.

And the successful congressional candidates will appear either in person or by letter. Richard Olney 2d will positively attend unless business in Washington proves too pressing. The same is true of Congressman Phelan of Lynn. If Congressman Gallivan has recovered from his illness he, too, will be on hand. Congressman-elect John F. Fitzgerald has assured those in charge of the meeting that he will be present.

WALSH CLUB COMING.

Marching clubs from all parts of the State have been invited to participate in the demonstration. From Fitchburg and Clinton word has come that the David I. Walsh Clubs in those cities will do their bit. In Framingham plans are under way to send a delegation down to honor Richard H. Long.

This event is not being arranged solely for the Democrats of the State. On the contrary it is the desire of the committee that independent voters as well as progressive Republicans who announced their intention of standing by the President by voting for David I. Walsh, attend. Women are invited as well as the men.

The Senator-elect feels that the women did much to elect him. Delegations of them toured the State in his behalf and their efforts added considerably toward his success. In the event of any of the Congressmen being unable to attend letters will be read from them.

In addition it is expected that letters from the national leaders in Washington will be read to the audience. An overflow will probably be held outside Faneuil Hall.

President Wires His Congratulations to Walsh

Personal congratulations from President Wilson were received today by Senator-elect David I. Walsh on his election. The President's telegram reads as follows:

"I congratulate you with all my heart. The result is indeed remarkable."

FINED $25 FOR FIGHT IN WALTHAM LUNCH ROOM

Louis P. Callahan of High street, Waltham, appeared in the Waltham court today looking as though he had come in close contact with a meat grinder. Also appeared in court Joseph Cacciatore of No. 240 Newton street, Waltham. The two met in a lunch room, where Cacciatore sailed into Callahan. He was fined $25 and appealed.

YEOWOMEN BLUE OVER SHIRT WAIST ORDER

Yeowomen at the First Naval District, received another shock today.

They can't wear this Winter, white collars and cuffs.

They have given up their fur. Now they must give up white shirt waists and put on blue waists with blue collars. Of course, the Yeowomen have the blues over this change.

WATERTOWN MAN ENDS HIS LIFE BY HANGING

Henry M. Stokes, fifty-five, of Appleton terrace, Watertown, who had made two previous attempts to kill himself, committed suicide by hanging today. His body was found hanging from a hinge on the door of his bathroom today. Mr. Stokes has been in poor health for some time.

Early trading in the stock market today was in large volume. Opening at recessions, prices advanced until many issues were above last night's close. Business was less active in the second hour. U. S. Steel opened unchanged at 102¾, and ranged between 101⅞ and 102⅞, most sales being near yesterday's close. Bethlehem B rose from 69¾ to 62¾, up ¾. Baldwin sold between 78¾ and 79½. Anaconda advanced from 71½ to 72⅝; Inspiration from 54¾ to 55¾; Kennecott from 39¾ to 40⅝, and with Utah, from 80 to 80½. American Sme

Smelting started off 1, at 81¾ and jumped to 84¼, up 1½.

Reading opened at 91¼, and rose to 93, up ¼; Southern Pacific advanced from 107¾ to 109¼, up ¾; Union Pacific from 135⅞ to 137¼, up ¼; Northern Pacific from 95¾ to 102; Great Northern pf. from 100¾ to 103¾, up ¾, and New York Central from 82 to 83⅞.

Mexican Petroleum opened off 5⅛ at 169 and sold at 173¾ after touching 176, up 1½; Marine pf. sold between 120½ and 121¾; Studebaker between 69¼ and 70¾ and Sumatra Tobacco between 102 and 105.

The local market was irregular with price changes fractional. American Telephone sold 103, Boston Elevated 73¼, Boston & Maine 36, New Haven 42¾, Swift & Company 124¾, United Fruit 147, United Shoe 48¾, U. S. Smelting 55, Copper Range 50½, East Butte 11⅝, Stewart 35¾, Century Steel 15¾.

Four hundred and sixty thousand shares of stock were traded in during the first two hours. The tone of the market was good, with prices irregular at mid-day.

Motor and equipment stocks made good gains. Studebaker sold up to 72¾, Maxwell 41¾, Pierce-Arrow 50½ and Willys-Overland 27½. Baldwin sold between 78¾ and 79½, and with rose to 81¾, American Locomotive 67¾ and Car and Foundry 88.

GRIP SPREADS IN CAMPS OF SOUTH AND WEST

Washington, Nov. 8.—Influenza continues at all large military camps and stations throughout the country, the total number of cases aggregating 18,175 for the week ending November 1, according to a review of the health conditions of the troops made public today by Surgeon-General Ireland. The disease is now more prevalent in the South and the West than in the North and East. The total number of deaths from all diseases in all camps, cantonments and departmental troops for the week ended November 1 was 1,572, as against 2,757 for the preceding week.

SUMMERFIELD'S

His Vision Over There Will Be a Reality Here

Sacredly she is uppermost in his mind. How he fondly recollects during his wee few sparing moments of home last year. The halo appears. He sees her and he sees home, in Thanksgiving garb, beautifully decorated. How he hopes he were there to share the pleasure, yet the time is close at hand for his return. Is your home ready to receive him royally? Are you disappointing him by letting home comforts alone? Now is the time to prepare for the eventful day to make his homecoming a pleasure. Think of how he will enjoy that first home-cooked meal. How much better it will be to serve in a dining room complete with new furniture. Get that furniture here, now. And don't forget the parlor. It needs something to give it an added appearance; maybe a rug, a cozy chair or a new suite. His room needs something, possibly a new bed, dresser, a chiffonier. Look around and see how much more you can make home for him by additional new furniture, and in this respect we can help you. Ready cash is unnecessary, because our Dignified Credit Plan makes it easy. For a small payment down you receive your selected goods and pay the balance at your convenience. Prices are lower now than they will be later.

'YOUNG AMERICA' GATHERS NUTS FOR ARMY

Invades Woods for Material for Gas Masks on Fields of Battle

Do you remember the day, long ago, when you went nutting with the first sweetheart you ever had?

Her name was Maggie Brown, perhaps, or Susie Gray, or Alice Something Else, you remember. And the woods were sunny and still, just the place for a budding and timid romance. And, you also remember, you held the bag for her. Her little fingers were bruised and you were sorry, and told her so, blushing as you said the words. Oh—you remember. Of course you do. That nutting party of yours was ancestress of another party of yesterday, for children still go nutting, only today, there is added meaning to these parties, for nut shells make gas masks for soldiers, these days. So, yesterday, five youngsters, Ellis Appleton and Teddy Appleton, and Bill, the baby, and Armada Lemont, the only "lady," seven years old, and Colman Lemont want nutting again, for fun and patriotism. And they took an AMERICAN reporter along with them.

Now patriotism of Young America was in the leafy atmosphere, when Young America went nutting for soldiers. Patriotism not with that spirit of the man from Missouri, who wanted to be shown. Chestnut burrs under foot, rare and rarer; beechnuts scarcer than a week ago, and children backs bent while incessant questions poured forth as Young America stooped to its task.

ENTHUSIASTIC PARTY.

"I wonder if," this from Coley, "I wonder if the soldier who will wear our masks will know we sent them to him?"

"Of course he won't," this from Armada, only "lady," final authority on soldiers in Newton Highlands, "a soldier never knows anything but forward march, and guns and swords. He hasn't time."

"I got a sword," this from the baby of the party, "and when you see a German hiding behind a tree, I'll kill him with my sword.'"

"But the Kaiser would be too worse," Neddy was very sure, "nobody could kill the Kaiser, unless he had a just terrible sword."

"Well, I guess our gas masks, which we will send to our soldiers, will help to kill the Kaiser, all right, my mother said they would," Ellis Appleton had his opinion, too.

So five little American patriots on a sunny afternoon in pungent Autumn woods, bent little backs, and bruised tender fingers against prickly burrs, in the name of the great defensive gods of warfare. As they scarcelyed, a carriage passed by, taking a soldier in khaki to church with his bride.

"Going to be married," announced Colman, briefly, "he's going to France any day now."

"I wonder why soldiers want to get married," this in deepest wonder from Teddy.

"I think it's fun enough just being a soldier."

OPPOSED TO MATRIMONY.

"You bet I do, too. If I was a soldier I would never waste time getting married." The male opinion was strictly anti-matrimonial in that nutting party as a soldier rode by with his bride to church. And the talk it also multiplied, replete with childish fancy.

"That soldier," from Ellis, "if that soldier knew that we were getting him a mask, why he might let us wear his soldier's cap a while."

"He might let us try it on, anyway."

The work progressed. And be it set down, nuts are fairly "scarce" at this date in Newton woods.

TURK'S ROLL WAS NOT LARGE ENOUGH FOR BAIL

Mohamed Mostaval, a Turk, of Collinsville, who is a mill operative at Dracut, gave the attendants in United States Mitchell's office quite a surprise when he dug down in his trousers and produced $500, which he was ready to furnish as bail for himself after his arrest on the charge of violation of the Espionage Act.

Upon placing the large roll of Uncle Sam's currency on a desk in the marshal's office, Mostaval smiled, as did everybody else. The smile on the Turk's face did not last long, for Mostaval became very down-hearted when Assistant United States Attorney Judd Dewey informed the defendant that he would have to furnish $1,000 bail.

As Mostaval did not have the necessary $500 he had to spend the night in the East Cambridge Jail. Case against him has been continued a week.

TWO SEEK NOMINATION FOR WORCESTER MAYOR

Worcester, Nov. 8.—Charles S. Murphy and Hugh H. O'Rourke will contest the Democratic nomination for Mayor of Worcester. Efforts to secure several prominent Democrats to make the run were unsuccessful, as none would enter a contest for the nomination and O'Rourke refused to withdraw in anyone's favor. Nominations for Alderman-at-large and school committeeman-at-large will have to be "written in" at the caucus.

WEALTHY MAN BURNED TO DEATH IN MANSION

New York, Nov. 8.—Amid the splendors of his historic Canarsaria village mansion, Charles Degrott, wealthy Brooklyn family, was burned aged seven-six, head of an old and to death.

COLD OVER THERE? SURE! NATIVE OF NEW ORLEANS

With the American Army in France, Nov. 8.—The first chill winds of Autumn were blowing across a high Vosges mountain peak where an American artillery observer was peering out toward the Rhine. He was wrapped in a heavy overcoat and wore a woolen cap pulled down over his ears, but still he shivered.

"Cold?" someone asked.

"Sure, you'd be cold, too," was the response. "Before I came over here I was a stereotyper in New Orleans.

Great Economies in China, Glass and Kitchen Needs

The sale is especially attractive to housewives this year, because of the tremendous price advances in all housefurnishings. Hundreds of lines of our stock were imported by us long before the curtailment of shipping necessitated by the war; therefore, we have fine goods of exceptional quality which cannot be duplicated until after the war.

From our extensive stocks we mention just a small number of special values. There are hundreds of others representing equally great savings.

A valuable opportunity to obtain useful and practical Christmas Gifts for the home maker.

ENVER TURNS DEAF EAR TO ALL PLEADINGS OF MORGENTHAU

Germans Fearful Lest They Be Blamed for Atrocities Committed by Turks.

Wangenheim Refuses Armistice.

CHAPTER XIX.—Continued.

By HENRY MORGENTHAU.

Former U. S. Ambassador to Turkey.

The next morning one of my callers made what would ordinarily have seemed to be an obvious suggestion. This visitor was a German. He told me that Germany would suffer greatly in reputation if the Turks carried out their plan; the world would not possibly be convinced that Germans had not devised the whole scheme. He said that I should call upon the German and Austrian ambassadors; he was sure that they would support me in pleas for decent treatment.

As I had made appeals to Wangenheim several times before in behalf of foreigners, without success, I had hardly thought it worth while to ask his co-operation in this instance. I decided, however to adopt the advice of my German visitor and seek Wangenheim's assistance.

WANGENHEIM UNMASKED.

I called upon him in the evening. Wangenheim said point blank that he would not assist me. "It is perfectly proper," he maintained "for the Turks to establish a concentration camp at Gallipoli. It is also proper for them to put non-combatants Turks and French on their transports and thus insure them against attack."

As I made repeated attempts to press the matter, Wangenheim would deftly shift the conversation to other topics. According to my record of this talk, written out at the time, the German Ambassador discussed almost every subject except that upon which I had called.

At another time all this would have greatly entertained me, but not then. It was quite apparent that Wangenheim would not discuss the proposed deportation, further than to say that the Turks were justified. His statement that it was planned to establish a "concentration camp" at Gallipoli unfolded his whole attitude.

My talk with Wangenheim produced no results, so far as enlisting his support was concerned, but it stiffened my determination to defeat this enterprise. I called upon Pallavicini, the Austrian Ambassador. He at once declared that the proposed deportation was "inhuman."

"I will take up the matter with the Grand Vizier," he said, "and see if I can't stop it."

"But you know that is perfectly useless," I answered. "The Grand Vizier has no power—he is only a figurehead. Only one man can stop this, that is Enver."

Pallavicini had far finer sensibilities and a tenderer consciences than Wangenheim, and I had no doubt that he was entirely sincere in his desire to prevent this crime. But he was a diplomat of the old Austrian school.

The saving of 2,000 lives was not, in Pallavicini's eyes, any reason why he should disregard the traditional routine of diplomatic intercourse.

STICKS TO OLD RULES.

"I must go strictly according to rules in this matter," he said. And, in the goodness of his heart, he did speak to Said Halim. Following this example Wangenheim also spoke to the Grand Vizier. In Wangenheim's case, however, the protest was merely intended for the official record.

"You may fool some people," I told the German Ambassador, "but you know that speaking to the Grand Vizier in this matter is of about as much use as shouting in the air."

However, there was one member of the diplomatic corps who worked wholeheartedly in behalf of the threatened foreigners. This was M. Kolouchef, the Bulgarian Minister. As soon as he heard of this latest Turco-German outrage, he immediately came to me with offers of assistance. He did not propose to waste his time by a protest to the Grand Vizier, but announced his intention of going immediately to the source of authority, Enver himself. Kolouchef was an extremely important man at that particular time, for Bulgaria was then neutral and both sides were angling for her support.

Meanwhile Bedri and his minions were busy arresting some of the doomed English and French. The deportation was arranged to take place Thursday morning. On Wednesday the excitement reached the hysterical stage. It seemed as if the whole population of Constantinople had gathered at the American Embassy. The nervous tension was frightful. I seized the telephone, called up Enver, and demanded an interview.

He replied that he would be happy to receive me on Thursday. By this time, however, the prisoners would already have been on their way to Gallipoli.

"No," I replied. "I must see you this afternoon."

Enver made all kinds of excuses; he was busy, he had appointments scheduled for the whole day.

"I presume you want to see me about the English and French," he said. "If that is so, I can tell you now that it will be useless. Our minds are made up. Orders have been issued to the police to gather them all by tonight and to ship them down tomorrow morning."

I still insisted that I must see him that afternoon, and he still attempted to dodge the interview.

"My time is all taken," he said. "The Council of Ministers meets at four o'clock and the meeting is to be a very important one. I can't absent myself."

ASTONISHES ENVER.

Emboldened by the thought of the lives of women that were flooding the whole Embassy I decided on an altogether unprecedented move.

"I shall not be denied an interview," I replied. "I shall come up to the cabinet room at four o'clock. If you refuse to receive me then, I shall insist on going into the council room and discussing the matter with the whole cabinet. I shall be interested to learn whether the English Cabinet will refuse to receive the American Ambassador."

It seemed to me that I could almost hear Enver gasp over the telephone. I presume few responsible ministers of any country have ever had such an astounding proposition made to them.

"If you will meet me at the Sublime Porte at 2:30," he answered, after a considerable pause, "I shall arrange to see you."

When I reached the Sublime Porte I was told that the Bulgarian Minister was having a protracted conference with Enver. Naturally I was willing to wait, for I knew what the two men were discussing. Presently M. Kolouchef came out; his face was tense and anxious, clearly revealing the ordeal through which he had just passed.

"It is perfectly hopeless," he said to me. "Nothing will move Enver; he is absolutely determined that this thing shall go through. I cannot wish you good luck, for you will have none."

The meeting which followed between Enver and myself was the most momentous I had had up to that time. I found Enver in one of his most polite but most unyielding moods. He told me before I began that it was useless to talk—that the matter was a closed issue. But I insisted on telling him what a splendid impression Turkey's treatment of her enemies had made on the outside world.

"Your record in this matter is better than that of any other belligerent country," I said. "You have not put them into concentration camps, you have let them stay here and continue their ordinary business, just as before. You have done this in spite of strong pressure to act otherwise. Why do you destroy all the good effect this has produced by now making such a fatal mistake as you propose?"

MAINTAINS FALSE POSITION.

But Enver insisted that the allied fleets were bombarding unfortified towns, killing women, children, and wounded men.

"We have warned them through you that they must not do this," he said, "but they don't stop."

This statement, of course, was not true, but I could not persuade Enver that he was wrong. He expressed great appreciation for all that I had done, and regretted for my sake that he could not accept my advice.

"All right—we won't haggle over ten," I answered. "But you must make another concession. Let me pick out the fifty who are to go."

This statement had relieved the tension, and now the gracious side of Enver's nature began to show itself again.

"No, Mr. Ambassador," he replied. "You have prevented me from making a mistake this afternoon, now let me prevent you from making one. If you select the fifty men who are to go, you will simply make fifty enemies. I think too much of you to let you do that. I will prove to you that I am your real friend. Can't you make some other suggestion?"

BARGAINING FOR YOUTH.

"Why not take the youngest? They can stand the fatigue best."

"That is fair," answered Enver. He said that Bedri, who was in the building at that moment, would select the victims. This caused me some uneasiness. I knew that Enver's modification of his order would displease Bedri, whose hatred of the foreigners had shown itself on many occasions, and that the head of the police would do his best to find some way of evading it. So I asked Enver to send for Bedri and give him his new orders in my presence. Bedri came in, and, as I had suspected, he did not like the new arrangement at all. As soon as he heard that he was to take only fifty and the youngest he threw up his hands and began to walk up and down the room.

"No, no, this will never do!" he said. "I don't want the youngest, I must have notables!"

But Enver stuck to the arrangement and gave Bedri orders to take only the youngest men. It was quite apparent that Bedri needed humoring, so I asked him to ride with me to the American embassy, where we would have tea and arrange all the details. This invitation had an instantaneous effect which the American mind will have difficulty in comprehending. An American would regard it as nothing to be seen publicly riding with an ambassador, or to take tea at an embassy. But this is a distinction which never comes to a minor functionary, such as a prefect of police, in the Turkish capital. Possibly I lowered the dignity of my office in extending this invitation to Bedri; Pallavicini would probably have thought so; but it certainly paid, for it made Bedri more pliable than he would otherwise have been.

HAGGLES OVER TERMS.

When we reached the embassy, we found the crowds still there, awaiting the results of my intercession. When I told the besiegers that only fifty had to go and these the youngest, they seemed momentarily stupefied. They could not understand it at first; they believed that I might obtain some modification of the order, but nothing like this. Then, as the truth dawned upon them, I found myself in the centre of a riot that had apparently gone momentarily insane, this time not from grief, but from joy.

For several minutes I struggled with this crowd, embarrassed by its demonstrations of gratitude, but finally I succeeded in breaking away and secreting myself and Bedri in an inner room.

"Can't I have a few notables?" he asked.

"I'll give you just one," I replied.

"Can't I have three?" he asked again.

"You can have all who are under fifty," I answered.

But that did not satisfy him, as there was not a solitary person of distinction under that age limit. Bedri really had his eye on Messieurs Weyl, Ivy and Dr. Frew. But I had one "notable" up my sleeve whom I was willing to concede. Dr. Wigram, an Anglican clergyman, one of the most prominent men in the foreign colony, had pleaded with me, asking that he might be permitted to go with the hostages and furnish them such consolation as religion could give them. I knew that nothing would delight Dr. Wigram more than to be thrown as a sop to Bedri's passion for "notables."

"Dr. Wigram is the only notable you can have," I said to Bedri. So he accepted him as the best that he could do in that line.

BEDRI'S GRIM JOKE.

At the end Bedri had to have his little joke. Though the fifty were informed that the last few days and in particularly gracious humor for the honor which now awaited me. For I had been there only a few minutes when His Excellency, the German Ambassador, was announced.

I had known that, in going through the form of speaking to the Grand Vizier, Wangenheim had been manufacturing his pretext for future use. I returned to the Embassy, somewhat wearied by the excitement of the last few days and in no particularly gracious humor for the honor which now awaited me. For I had been there only a few minutes when His Excellency, the German Ambassador, was announced.

I had known that, in going through the form of speaking to the Grand Vizier, Wangenheim had been manufacturing his pretext for future use.

Charlestown and Somerville to Send "Smiles" Tomorrow

AT 2 P. M.
AT CHARLESTOWN PLAYGROUND—
Which is at SULLIVAN SQUARE, CHARLESTOWN—
Will be filmed the fifth instalment of "Smiles Across the Sea."

All soldiers' relatives residing in both CHARLESTOWN and SOMERVILLE are cordially invited to march before the camera and smile for their boys overseas.

"Send your smiles to France" has been adopted as the official watchword of the "Smiles Across the Sea" campaign. It is safe to say that one million soldiers' relatives have thus far appeared in the big film serial which is being made in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Atlanta, Boston and other cities reached by the unparalleled Hearst chain of newspapers.

As fast as the films are made they are sent to New York to be developed and printed for transmission overseas. "Smiles Across the Sea" will be shown simultaneously in social centres behind the lines in France on Christmas Day. The whole enterprise is Mr. Hearst's way of making a substantial Christmas present to the boys in the trenches.

CHARLESTOWN and SOMERVILLE relatives who are to be filmed tomorrow are requested to provide themselves with signs bearing personal greetings and messages to their soldier-boy relatives "over there." Whole families in line add greatly to the attractiveness of the picture. Bring the babies, too.

"Close-ups" will be made of war-babies and war-brides following the filming of the long procession which is sure to be there. The big turn-out of relatives will be headed by members of the different exemption boards and community officials. Draft Divisions 1, 2 and 3 of Somerville and Division 3, embracing Wards 3 and 4 of Charlestown, are included in the invitation to "smile" tomorrow.

SOUTH BOSTON relatives will be filmed at Marine Park, City Point, on Sunday, November 10. This instalment will include Wards 9 and 10 and Draft Divisions of the same numbers.

Parts of the SOUTH END, DORCHESTER and ROXBURY, included in Wards 11, 12 and 13, will take their turn before the "Smiles" camera on Wednesday, November 13, at the William Eustis Playground, Massachusetts avenue and Proctor street.

All CAMBRIDGE and ARLINGTON relatives are invited to be filmed in one great combined picture, to be made at Rindge Field, NORTH CAMBRIDGE, on Saturday afternoon, November 16.

The time and place for the filming of DORCHESTER CENTRE, ASHMONT, NEPONSET AND MATTAPAN relatives will be announced shortly.

Other appointments, at the rate of three a week, will successively include in the "Smiles" film all soldiers' relatives in Boston and suburbs.

Read the Boston AMERICAN every day to learn when your district will be filmed.

There is no expense connected with the taking of the pictures. All costs and responsibility will be assumed by William Randolph Hearst and the International Film Service, Mr. Hearst's great moving picture organization.

If the weather is inclement Wednesday's pictures will be taken on Thursday, Saturday's pictures on Monday, and Sunday's film on the Tuesday following the advertised dates.

War Department Figures by Far Most Expensive; Big Merchant Marine

BY JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.

Washington, Nov. 8—How much do we pay for Armageddon? And what do we get for it?

How much have we spent on this war? How much are we spending? How much of it is lost beyond recall? How much of it comes back to us in a material way, and what is the worth of the imponderable but priceless returns that we are about to have and are inevitably sure to have for the most colossally expensive enterprise ever engaged in by this or any other nation?

IMMENSE VALUATION.

The whole republic is interested in the answer to these questions. But how few people understand or have any correct idea of the money value or of the immensely greater moral value of the vast transaction!

An afternoon with the higher officials of the Treasury—excepting Mr. McAdoo, Assistant Secretary Leffingwell, Comptroller John Skelton Williams and John Mac, of the financial statistics—is enlightening and richly inspiring.

Speaking all the way through in round numbers, the wealth of the country is written at $256,000,000,000. The national income is $15,000,000,000. What we have actually expended so far in the war is not above $15,000,000,000. But with the appropriations and estimates and bills payable up to the end of the fiscal year—from June to June—we will have spent or raised $37,000,000,000.

This is in fourteen months about two and one-half times the national income—if it is spent. For the War Department alone, which is far and away the largest and most expensive, the estimate for the fiscal year is $22,000,000,000, although the Treasury does not see how we can spend it, and does not think we will. The navy, having as great a start, in comparatively small, only $1,600,000,000. The Shipping Board will be $2,500,000,000, the Quartermaster's Department, which is included in war, is $3,500,000,000, and aviation, $1,070,000,000.

READY-MADE MARINE.

In the quid pro quo, for instance, take the Shipping Board. For its $2,500,000,000 it will have by next June unquestionably the greatest merchant marine in the world. The nation whose best economic thinkers have clamored for a quarter of a century without success for an ample merchant marine will find itself possessed of one ready made, at the very moment when the chaos of the world's commerce proves an unparalleled opportunity to make our republic the greatest and richest commercial nation of the world. Measured in sheer figures of prosperity alone the Shipping Board will have been worth all and more than it spent.

The Aviation Department will cost by June $1,070,000,000, and although it has provoked much gossip and criticism it will have contributed to our own and to the world's commerce in aerial transportation the Liberty Motor, which is certain to become standard and indispensable in the mighty material developments of the air and pay for itself many times over.

Steel Men Contribute $5,000,000 Toward War-Work Fund

New York, Nov. 8—Five million dollars is the contribution, it was announced today, of the United States Steel Corporation to the United War Work Campaign Fund. In announcing the largest gift any one person has ever made for any cause whatever, Judge E. H. Gary said:

"It seems to me that the steel concerns of this country should contribute $100,000,000 toward this fund. The U. S. Steel Corporation will contribute $5,000,000."

COTTON REPORT SHOWS GAIN OVER 1917 FIGURES

Washington, Nov. 8—Census cotton report shows 7,794,815 bales counting round in 26 states and from the growth of 1918 to November 1, compared with 7,715,125 for 1917 and 11,302,493 for 1916. Round bales included, this year are 14,041, compared with 132,207 for 1917 and 1,144,141 for 1916. Sea Island included is 15,762 for 1918, 57,206 for 1917 and 50,727 for 1916.

A full line of full box Chesterfields—this is a single breasted style popular year after year because of its plainness and simplicity. The materials are, of course, all wool and will give long service. If you want a good overcoat at a very low price, call before these are gone.

All Wool Blue Serges

For men and young men—these suits are selling at $32 wholesale today. We guarantee them all wool, fast color, or your money back. No suit more useful than a good blue serge. Buy one now and here and save 20%.

Varsity "55" and Others

Among the wonderful values at $25 still in our stock are "Varsity Fifty-Five" blue undressed worsted suits—also men's and young men's oxford grey close and semi-close fitting suits. These are all wool and would also be at least $35 on basis of their present wholesale price.

This Live Store Will Save You Money on Your Gloves

'Tis said that a good example is the best sermon. So we'll give not merely one but three examples of our greater value-giving in Men's Gloves. There are many others just as good.

Capes
High grade cape gloves of a quality not offered elsewhere at less than $2.50 and seldom as low as this. Our price is $2.25

Mochas
Good, heavy, plump skins, outseam sewn, with plain [illegible] backs. [illegible] Here—
$3.00

Buckskins
First quality skins. High grade making. Self or black [illegible] backs. Instead of $3.50 our price is $2.50

A Matter of Serving

Rather than Money Making

"For the fun of it, and the greatest good of the greatest number," replied Henry Ford when asked what he was in business for, and everyone knows that his problem is not to sell his cars, but to make enough of them. So our problem today is not to sell our merchandise, but to keep the quality up and the prices down and to find enough goods to supply the demand.

Some stores serve to sell. We sell to serve. We are distributors of the finest clothing the market affords. We insure its high character and satisfaction-giving qualities. We give our customers the benefit of every financial advantage arising from our 8-store purchasing power, our cash buying and our cash selling.

Just now we are rendering a greater service than ever by taking only our usual narrow margin of profit on garments made from woolens we purchased long before prices had risen to their present levels. We might easily double our profits and still undersell all other stores. But that's not our way of doing business.

Good Suits for as little as $20, $22.50, $25

We want to see how many friends we can make rather than how many dollars. That's why a man who feels he can't afford to pay very much for a suit this season can come to this Live Store and find perfect style, excellent tailoring and dependable all-wool fabrics (many of which are no longer being made) in a big stock and wide variety of suits between $20 and $30.

Kuppenheimer Suits $30, $32.50, $35 and up

Tailored with infinite care and surpassing skill from pure long-fibre Australian wool fabrics from famous looms that for a long time now have woven nothing but O. D. cloth for the Yanks over there. Few such fabrics are to be found elsewhere. None at all at these prices. We have enough for this season and probably all of next.

Topcoats—Overcoats—Town Ulsters—Full Ulster.

All ready when you are. All up to the same quality standard as the suits. All priced on the same greater-value-giving basis.

Boys' Suits

No Boys' Department in the city of Boston ever grew so rapidly in size, in importance, in popularity as this of ours. Kennedy methods are as effective in boys' clothes as in men's.

Big Boys' Suits $8.50 to $19.50

Made from the same tweeds, homespuns and fancy mixed fabrics as our men's suits and tailored equally as well. Endless variety of most attractive patterns.

Big Boys' Overcoats—$11.50 to $25

Juvenile Suits
All-wool knitted jersey suits, serges, corduroys and mixtures in the very newest models.
$5.50 to $12.50

Juvenile Coats
A multitude of fancy mixtures, chinchillas, pebble cheviots, etc., in numerous catchy styles.
$5.50 to $15

Special Army Style Coats
Made from O. D. Moleskin, cut strictly in accordance with military regulations, lined with flannel. Sizes 4 to 8 years. Get the Little Major one.

LIBERTY BOSTON, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1918. DEMOCRACY

DEVENS MEN TO PARADE IN LOWELL

By THOMAS F. PHELAN

Camp Devens, Ayer, Nov. 8.—More than 1,500 men of the Depot Brigade, accompanied by the 57th military band of that city, will be guests of the Lowell Chamber of Commerce and Post No. 4, G. A. R., attending the Navy and Army parade in Lowell on Armistice day.

Major General McCain has sanctioned the program to be carried out by the men from this camp and has ordered a number of auto trucks to take the men over the road to the Spindle City.

A committee of representative citizens of Lowell will meet the sailors. The men will be in heavy marching order and will have their full equipment. The parade itself will be an imposing affair, with the governor of the state, the mayor of Lowell and the entire Lowell public school system on the Lowell Common.

Preparations for social and fraternal functions of Lowell are leaving no stone unturned in their efforts to entertain the soldiers and sailors. It is stated.

Major General McCain and staff and divisional and camp officers have been invited to join with the citizens of Lowell in celebrating the day. A banquet will be held in one of the leading hotels and speeches touching on the present status of the peace movement will be made by prominent men.

The new Brigade Sergeant Major of the 11th Pioneer Depot Brigade, Thomas Hoops, upon receiving his eighth chevron, the insignia of the highest rank in the command, Dann treated the entire company to a feed of fried potatoes and onions and Frankfurters supper in the battalion barracks. "Sergeant Joe," as he is known, said he never heard about him

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

[illegible] had breath a bad taste, [illegible] coated, if your head is dull or aching, if what you eat sours and forms gas and you have a sick, sour stomach, or you are bilious, or subject to [illegible], sallow complexion, [illegible] pimples, begin [illegible] drink before breakfast a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of bisulphate phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and [illegible] system, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste gases and [illegible] before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel, like you did before your blood, nerves and [illegible] were [illegible] with body poisons, get from your pharmacist a few ounces of bisulphate phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish tingle which is not unpleasant.

Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast.—Advertisement.

AMERICANS WIN MOST NOTABLE FEAT OF WAR

Advance of Pershing's Army Since Sept. 28 Astonishes Military Officers

Washington, Nov. 8.—On the eve of peace the American Army in France, the greatest armed force ever operating together in the field under Old Glory, achieved in the capture of Sedan the most notable feat of arms ever recorded in the pages of the nation's history.

Army officers confirmed dispatches that in the operations which carried to a successful finish Pershing, [illegible] half a million men made reply [illegible] America pastes [illegible] that the power of American liberty had been disrobed to the sordid pursuit of mercenary gain.

BAKER OVERJOYED.

Secretary of War Baker was overjoyed by the news of the taking of Sedan. He said:

"The news of the taking of Sedan is very good news, it is a great military achievement. At our last report the Americans were a distance, I guess, of five or six miles from Sedan in the most difficult country since the western front except the Flanders territory in Flanders.

"The advance of Pershing's army from the 26th day of September to the first of November was difficult, in the face of very heavy opposition and against the most difficult kinds of positions and it is indeed very much more rapid progress to realize the taking of Sedan. That place actually has fallen as far as a military objective is a united [illegible] in the war and [illegible]

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

"American [illegible] army all [illegible] here, who have been [illegible] of the [illegible] through [illegible] when the [illegible] come. They are [illegible] France [illegible] endeavors which [illegible] to [illegible] by every [illegible] in the war [illegible] an [illegible] with [illegible] pain [illegible] were [illegible] to Sedan, [illegible] the [illegible] movement [illegible] marks with [illegible] effort put forth by [illegible] and [illegible] Germany [illegible]

A Good Week's Work by Pershing's Troops

Since November 1, they have:
Advanced 40 kilometres.
Freed 700 square kilometres of France.
Liberated 2,000 civilians.
Captured 6,000 prisoners.
Taken stacks of arms, munitions, stores, supplies, etc.
(The climax of this good week was the capture of Sedan, west of the Meuse River, and the cutting of the chief German rail lines between Metz fortress and the battlefront.)

NEW LEGISLATION FOR REGULATION OF AUTOS

The special legislative commission [illegible] to next year's [illegible] under consideration twenty-five matters relative to the regulation of motor vehicles. These include the headlight nuisance, regulation of the use and operation of jitneys, safeguarding cars in order to prevent theft, checking second hand dealers and requiring them to report such with the [illegible] and they must report the [illegible] of any new car, and the [illegible] of the weight and fees based upon trucks.

DEDHAM TREASURER NAMED AS EXECUTOR

Town Treasurer Thomas P. Murray, of Dedham, has been appointed executor of the will of Ellen J. Gaffney, of Dedham, who died October 1. In said will she gives one half of the [illegible] of her estate to the Sisters of Holy Novitiate St. Anthony-on-the-Hudson, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and the remaining half to the Little Sisters of the Poor, Dudley street, Roxbury. The estate comprises [illegible] of property and $2,000 [illegible] estate. Mr. Murray, the executor, furnished a bond of $30,000.

10 HORSES ARE BURNED TO DEATH AT REVERE

Ten horses were burned in a two-alarm fire of unknown origin, which totally destroyed a large barn at the [illegible] of Green street, near the Boston & Maine yards, in Revere. The building was owned and used by the Revere Fuel & Ice company, of which Arthur H. Currie is proprietor.

In addition to the horses, valued at $700, and the barn valued at $1,000 a quantity of hay, valued at $300, was destroyed.

ADMITS SALE IN RAGE NEWTON MAN FINED $100

Joseph Latez of Newton Lower Falls lost a temper in the Newton Court today and it cost him $100. He was arraigned for keeping a liquor nuisance and pleaded not guilty. A woman witness testified that on a certain date she bought a pint of gin from Latez. The latter, sprang to his feet and angrily denied ever having sold the woman any liquor, declaring in the next breath that it was a quart of gin he had sold to her husband. The judge fined him $100.

REQUIEM MASS FOR DR. LEEN TOMORROW

A solemn high mass of requiem for Dr. [illegible] Leen, vice president of St. Mary's Conference of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, and a former member of the school committee, will be said at St. Mary's Church on Warren street tomorrow morning.

The celebrant of the mass will be Rev. John W. McMahon, S. J. Rev. James H. Fahey, deacon, and Rev. Michael J. Murphy, sub deacon. The mass will be celebrated under the auspices of St. Mary's Conference.

AIRPLANE PLANT SWEPT BY FLAMES

5 Government Machines Destroyed in Fire at Marblehead

Marblehead, Nov. 8. In a fire that [illegible] the No. 2 plant of the Burgess Company & Curtis Company here between twenty-five and thirty government aeroplanes were burned. The loss is estimated at [illegible] in the vicinity of $500,000.

A watchman at the [illegible] discovered the fire [illegible] from [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] spread rapidly to the [illegible] and [illegible] the warehouse of the Stearns & Mckay [illegible] Company and for a time threatened that part of the town.

Several explosions, probably of acetone tanks, occurred during the early part of the fire. All records and plans of the airplane company, except the navy's at inspection records, were [illegible].

The $65 women and women employes of the [illegible] homes before the fire started to take part in the "peace" parade. [illegible] Company, including the [illegible] used as a munitions [illegible] general [illegible] and sheds, and stock estimated by the purchasing agent at between $2,000 and $300,000. Between 45 and 49 furnaces were destroyed. Dwellings stored in the Stearns & Mckay buildings also were lost. It is believed the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion.

The Sunbeam, a well-known yacht, which figured on many German powder boat races before the war, was among the craft destroyed in the Stearns & Mckay sheds. Another was Little Blood, one of the best known racers in New England waters.

WOOD ISLAND PARK SEA WALL WINS PRAISE

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side, headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement

A Mere Question of Age

MARINE RUNNER RELATES WAR EXPERIENCES

"It's Easy After You Learn How," Says Youthful Warrior

BY HAZEL CANNING.

"Well," said I, "you're gone. So that's the string I felt in my hand just now. But where the fun have you gone to?" And I looked about, but I never saw it afterwards. The Lord only knows where it flew to."

The youngest marine of them all, over at Chelsea Naval Hospital, was describing how he lost his right thumb which sent him home from the fight. Now the youngest marine is David D. Cairns, of Brockton, who enlisted when he was just past 15, and celebrated his 15th and his 20th birthdays in France.

Young Cairns was a runner.

"I picked that job because I thought it would be a nice, soft snap," he confided, laughing. "No trenches, no work of stringing Germans on the end of your bayonet, no tiresome waiting for the word to advance. Plenty of action to a runner's job. But say, marm—"

A boy with a peach complexion, and the big blue eyes of later childhood, stopped a moment to emphasize deepest philosophy of the trenches. Philosophy learned of going to war.

LUCKY TO GET THROUGH.

"Say, marm, you never know what a job is like in France till you tried that job a while. Which I did, with mine, and I found out that all a runner has to dodge are the Big Berthas and the Minnie Wurfles and the Slam Bangs, and the fire red and the white fire and the green fire and machine gun bullets, and artillery, and barrage so trained on you by the Fritzies that as you ran ahead the barrage runs ahead also, a curtain of fire. You are a lucky boy, lots of times, if you get your message through to company headquarters."

So the talk began of how the thumb was lost. Again philosophy born of going to war, and living the thing yourself. "Do you know, marm, for a year or more I dodged successfully all the little items I just mentioned to you.

"How?" Oh, it's easy after you learn. Smearing my helmet and face with mud, so that when the Huns sent up a flare and I dropped to the ground, I looked like the landscape, that's all. For hours, sometimes, I have lain on the ground, between front line trenches and company headquarters, looking like the scenery industriously. I got thrills, at that. Once, I can feel the electricity of fear pounding inside of me yet, once at night, when it was just beginning to rain, a great rain drop fell on my tin hat. Sounded like a bullet. 'Gee, I'm done for this time," I said to myself. I felt. I was all right. But I got a worse scare then than when, at last, I got my wound.

"You know, marm, a feller may dodge and be frightened, and go on for years, unwounded, and have some mighty close shaves at that.

THOUGHT HE WAS "GONER."

As once, when I was running, a machine gun bullet got me. I was stunned; dropped flat, faint all over, sure I was a goner. Finally I felt about. My coat was ripped open clear to the skin. Buttons torn off; all over I was sore with the percussion. Suffering cats, I was sore! But I was not even scratched. Over there, a feller suffers a lot more from the wound he doesn't get than from the wound he does.

From wounds the talk passed to hospitals. Each marine had something to tell, of wounds, and nurses, and hospital visitors.

For this is a favorite subject with the marines. They discuss wounds in a bow, bow, roaring male fashion, eminently wholesome, with a joke and a smile. For the visitor heard:

That—the best thing which happened to the American marine in Paris hospitals was Elsie Janis. "Every afternoon, never missed one, she used to come and sing to us. And the best song of all was "I Don't Want to Get Well." Could sing it in all languages, including Lithuanian. Yep—versatile, is Elsie. And good natured. Never cried over a feller, like French women cried. And never stared you out of countenance till your wounds started bleeding all over again, from sheer self consciousness.

"And the girls in Paris hospitals who run the Red Cross, a close second were the Red Cross nurses. Say, sister, they was all right. Regular guys, those nurses. The kind of darned good sports that carried matches in their pocketses and smoked cigarettes for us fellers, you know. All you had to do was to tip them the word, and matches and smokes were yours. And those nurses never fussed about a little loose ashes more or less. Don't forget those Red Cross nurses, now, will you? Just say how they used to take their afternoons off, freezing ice cream for us fellers, when ice cream was a dollar a pint in Paris and scarce at that."

WASHERWOMAN TAKING COURSE IN STENOGRAPHY

Lamoni, Iowa, Nov. 8.—Working side by side with young men and women, young enough to be her grandchildren, Mrs. Ethel Hicks, for years a washerwoman here, is taking a course of stenography in a local business college. She intends following it instead of her former trade. A new steam laundry here has put an end to her former profitable business.

GROUND ELECTRIC WIRE MAKES PECULIAR CATCH

Mechanicsburg, Ohio, Nov. 8.—Henry Stanley insists that this is a true story. It is about three linemen.

They were coming across the field near Hopkins's country home. Nothing the linens had become dim they looked around for the cause.

Some distance away they found a wire down with the insulation worn off of three places, hanging to the wire were a cook, an opossum and a grounding.

Another case of "element" trouble.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a small bottle of Danderine at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of the awful scurf will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.—Advertisement.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILD

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath hot and stomach sour?

Harmless "fruit laxative" best to clean tender liver and bowels.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children love this delicious fruit laxative. Millions now use it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, tongue coated, or fever, or cleaning should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no small size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advertisement.

STALLINGS TO BUY IN BRAVES

By NICK FLATLEY.

Walter E. Hapgood, president and business manager.

George T. Stallings, vice-president and field manager.

That's the latest aspect of the troubled affairs of the local Braves. While the club hasn't been sold yet; while the back debts haven't been paid up yet; while former owner James E. Gaffney hasn't brought suit for the $15,500 he kicked in to insure the bondholders, protect his own interest and prevent the outfit from being auctioned; yet, the Braves are still being talked about.

PLANTS BEST ASSETS.

With Hank Gowdy and Rabbit Maranville likely to stroll back from foreign parts and step into baseball uniforms—Brave once—the looks are more or less like a real chance to speculate. The added fact that the Red Sox will go up and play on Braves Field, and thereby split the running expenses of the giant ball yard, doesn't detract from the investment value of the proposition, either.

The facts of the matter just now are as follows:

Millet, Ree & Hagan, the banking firm that really owns the club, has decided to quit, and offers the proposition at a figure that is a distinct bargain in the light of what the deal cost them.

Manager Stallings and Business Manager Hapgood have interested a certain coterie of Boston business men and bankers in the proposition. Former Mayor Curley, who has been mentioned as a prospective owner, is merely one of this group, we are inclined to believe.

This coterie we refer to is willing to pool its money, buy the club, and let Hapgood and Stallings run it. The latter pair, of course, will put their bit into the general fund.

BOX ARE ON MARKET.

That we will tell the world is how matters stand just now in the Boston National League baseball situation.

There are rumors flying that the Red Sox are on the market also. It is whispered that the owners there are have notes to meet and things like that which make the selling of Fenway Park almost a necessity. It is said that certain payments to Joseph J. Lannin, former owner, have been delayed and that he is anxious to get his money.

Of course, there are always such stories flying about in baseball even in times when the whole world cares for just one thing—peace—but they are so persistent just now to be entirely overlooked.

So now you have them all, and know just as much actually—we do.

RADIO SCHOOL HUSKIES GET AWAY FOR NEWPORT

Twenty-six men formed the Naval Radio School football squad which left this morning for Newport, R. I., where the Second Naval District eleven will be met tomorrow afternoon. Before leaving, Coach Louis Tripician announced the following lineup for the game: l.e. Clifford; l.t., Danakin; l.g., Sweeney; c., Cox; r.g., Brinker; r.t., Bartlett; r.e. Cronan; q.b., Holland; l.h.b., Beardon; r.h.b., M. Cox; f.b., White.

The other members of the Cambridge party were Reynold Oas, Johnny Nagle, Ernie Johnson, Errol Chrisman, Bill Montgomery, Claude Shearer, Russ Rose, Hal Frye, Bill Rubin, Fred Raney, Marion Cleary, Roy Judkins, Coach Tripician, a doctor and hospital apprentice.

Gunner A. M. McMahon, athletic officer of the station, will leave tomorrow morning for Newport. Several Wakefield players are expected to go along with him.

DEVENS AND MERRITT CAMP TEAMS MEET

Camp Devens and the Camp Merritt team of New Jersey battle at Braves Field tomorrow afternoon.

Camp Merritt will arrive in Boston tomorrow with a squad of twenty-five men, all of them officers and with titles ranging from major down to second lieutenants. The major playing the game is Clark Tobin, who was for years a star at Dartmouth, and there are no less than seven captains in the combination, including Captain Preston of Chicago University and Captain Leslie of Rutgers, far famed in his collegiate days for his work as quarterback.

WALLIE PIPP OFF FOR FLORIDA FLYING FIELD

Wallie Pipp, slugging first baseman of the New York Yankees, who has been attending Tech's Naval Aviation School for the past two months, leaves for the naval flying field at Miami, Fla., tonight. Pipp has made a lot of friends with the naval contingent at Tech and was the recipient of a lot of hearty goodbyes during the day.

WILLARD VS. MONAHAN IN CHARITY BOUT

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 8.—Sergeant Walter Monahan of Camp Greenleaf has been matched to meet Jess Willard here November 6, for the benefit of the war work fund. He wired his acceptance of Willard's invitation today.

DORCHESTER HIGH HAS ONE POINT ON ENGLISH

Dorchester High won its first gridiron victory over English High in ten years in their battle at Fenway Park, 7-6. It was a brilliantly contested game, with all the scoring registered in the third period.

BATTLING REDDY BOXES CURRIE IN C.A.C. RING

CARD AT COMMERCIAL A. C.

Main event—Joe Curtis of New Haven, Ct., vs. Battling Reddy of New York, twelve rounds.

Semi-final—Eddie Paulson of St. Paul vs. Young Vetu of Chelsea, ten rounds.

Preliminary—Johnny Evans of Chelsea vs. Kid Francis of Lawrence, six rounds.

Curtain raiser—Leo Alfredo of East Boston vs. Zulu Kid of Lawrence, six rounds.

Referee—Larry Cudney.

Starting time—8 p. m.

BY RINGSIDE.

Another snappy card is on tap at the Commercial A. C. tonight, when four rounds of boxing being billed between boys who always deliver the goods.

Joe Currie, clever and hard-hitting New Haven youth, appears to be in for a busy session against Battling Reddy of New York. Reddy has shown around the vicinity and has always made a hit with the fans. Frankie (Tacna) Britt is included among his victims.

Only one of the boys stacked up against Currie since he first showed his wares here—Young Saccoccia—has been able to get away with him. Reddy may be able to do the trick, and then he may fall. A warm bout is in store, anyway.

Mike Paulson and Young Vetu are both in fine shape for their ten-round quarrel, and if they repeat their last performance, the fans will be satisfied. Jumping in as a substitute against Vetu, Mike routed the youngster in a fine surprise and was going like a racehorse at the final chapter.

Matchmaker Jack Leonard has a fine card arranged for the members of the Marlboro Driving Club tonight. The bill features George Robinson of Cambridge and Danny Ferguson of Philadelphia. This pair of sluggers should furnish the fans with plenty of action.

Billy Burke of Lynn opposes Young Readine of Camp Edgar in the eight-round semi-final. This is another pair of busy boys.

DONOVAN FOULS SACCO WITH SAILOR IN FRONT

Lowell, Nov. 8.—The Sailor (Young) Sacco-Johnny Donovan bout at the Crescent A. C. fast at the outset, had an unsatisfactory ending, the latter being sent to his corner in the fourth round by Referee Martin Flaherty after Sacco had his opponent low. Sacco was shading Donovan up to the time Johnny committed his foul.

Shick Suggs, dusky Newport hatter, won from Willie Green of South Boston, in eight rounds; Frank Mollens of Lowell, defeated Young Chodo of Boston, in six rounds, and Lewis Alberts and Joe Hayes went six rounds to a draw.

MURCH TO TAKE UP DUTIES AT PRINCETON

A farewell reception was tendered Simeon A. Murch, athletic instructor at the Y. M. C. A. Camp, U. S. Naval Training Station at Hingham, today. Mr. Murch leaves tomorrow morning for Princeton University, where he will take up the duties of his recent army appointment as physical director.

Murch is well known in athletic circles, a former baseball player in both leading Eastern baseball leagues, and at one time was connected with the St. Louis team of the latter league.

PURE BLOOD

From the blood all the solid tissues take their food and oxygen. Unless the blood is pure in a healthy condition it affects the entire body. If you have sty, tired skin, pimples on the face, swollen tonsils, sore throat, if the joints become swollen and stiff, if you have catarrh and feel stuffed up; if you have a cough, bronchitis, or any of the many other ills, get Hood's Sarsaparilla. It's a fact—is your blood a mess? This remedy is expressly intended to purify, enrich and vitalize the blood and at the same time build up the red corpuscles and make pure, rich, healthy blood. DR. FOOTBALL RESULTS—Yale 10, Brown 10; Holy Cross 6, Tufts 0; Andover 13, Exeter 0; Dartmouth 16, Princeton 6.

* * *

JIMMY LEE of the B. A. A. finished fourth in the ten-mile amateur championship race at Celtic Park, New York. Jimmy led for seven miles but John T. Eisele of the New York A. C. took command from then on. Lee collapsed after finishing. (Remember Jimmy's father; how he used to root for the boy at the South picnic games?)

* * *

CICH, owned and driven by A. J. Parker of Brighton, made a new five-mile record for unhopped horses over the Franklin Field Speedway at the matinee races of the Dorchester Driving Club. His time: 2:30½; :59¾; 1:30¼; 2:00¾; 2:30¾.

* * *

WALTHAM HIGH beat Newton High, 13-0, at Waltham. Leary played a great offensive game for the winners. The game had hardly begun when Waltham scored on a 40-yard run by Leary and a quadruple forward pass in which Curtin carried the ball over. (The name of Leary in football circles seems familiar.)

* * *

SOMERVILLE HIGH defeated Malden High, 17-0, at Broadway Field, Somerville. Pep, Cousens, colored boy, was a tower of strength for Somerville. Dickerman, Ned Garland and McDonald (Herb, I suppose), also starred for Somerville. Iggs Donahue of Somerville, G. Miner of Malden, started a slugging bee and were thrown out of the game.

* * *

EVERETT HIGH defeated Salem, 17-12, at Salem. The first half was all Salem; the second half was all Brickley. The Everett star kicked three goals from the field out of four tries, one being from the 45-yard line. He also scored a touchdown. (His Brickley boy might have developed into some football player if handled right, eh?).

* * *

DORCHESTER HIGH beat High School of Commerce, 20-8. McCarty of Dorchester, made two corking runs, one of 40 yards and one of 65 yards.

* * *

JOHN CRUDDEN of Somerville, twelve mile champion walker of New England, has a match on Thanksgiving Day against N. Spury of Somerville, and Ned Connors, of Cambridge. (John Cruddeen has no record, and I thought I knew everybody in Somerville.)

* * *

GEORGE MEMSIC and Jack Blackburn went six hard rounds to a draw at Philadelphia. (Recollect me calling attention to Blackburn conceding fourteen pounds. Too much for any man to give.)

* * *

RADIO TEAM TO DO BIT BY WAR WORK DRIVE

The Harvard Radio School football team, in addition to meeting Camp Devens in the big sport feature of the United War Work drive in this section of the land, will also play two other games for the fund.

The Cambridge youngsters take on the Newport Naval Training Station outfit tomorrow; play their big game with Devens at the Stadium November 16, and then fit over to the Polo Grounds, New York, for a tussle with the Princeton S. A. T. C. squad a week later.

Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood has ordered that all funds go to the big cause, so that his First Naval District will score in a big bunch of money.

Gunner McMahon, assistant coach and athletic officer at the school, is away, owing to illness in his family. Meanwhile all the coaching is being done by Louis Tripician, an old Bucknell star, who knows a deal of football and possesses the happy faculty of being able to impart it to others.

Plans for the big game at the Stadium, a week from tomorrow, have been completed. The Radio-Devens teams will line up at 2 o'clock. There will be organized cheering by Radio and Devens, and Army and Navy bands playing.

There will also be a big Army-Navy-chariot relay race between the halves. There will be singing by the soldiers and sailors and the civilians who come to watch what is now generally looked on as the service championship game for this section of the country. Tickets, which will go on sale tomorrow, will be $2 and $1. It will be the big football game of the year.

The Harvard S. A. T. C. football eleven for tomorrow's contest with Tufts at the Stadium has been selected by Coach Pooch Donovan and Captain Ned Daley.

The Crimson will present a rush line heavier than that of the visiting soldiers, and one which its backers expect to hold against the more experienced Tufts forwards.

Jim McMahon, Exeter and Mercersburg Academy lineman, is slated to play right tackle. His 190 pounds and all-around aggressiveness is a big asset for the Harvard line. Brown, at right guard, weighs 192 pounds.

Donovan is standing pat on Frank Hesse at center, and has called upon Dennis and Levine to play the wings. Captain Daley will look after left tackle, and Hollis Coleman will be at left guard.

Arthur Coolin, former Exeter Academy star, will start the game at quarterback, unless Bob Hoffman, who has been coaching, decides at the last moment to get into action. Either Frank A. is guaranteed that things will be kept moving along.

Proposals.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS —Metropolitan Park Commission.—Notice.—Sealed proposals for furnishing low boats to be used in breaking ice in the channels of the Charles River will be received at the office of the Metropolitan Park Commission, 20 Tremont st., Boston, Mass., at 10 o'clock a. m. of Monday, Nov. 18, 1918, at which time and place they will be opened and read aloud. The boats shall be of wooden hull and shall be not less than 30 feet long, and will be required to be delivered at such time as may be satisfactory to the engineer. The price shall be charged at the rate per hour, for not less than eight hours' work on any one order, and the time shall be computed from the time the boat arrives at the entrance to the Charles River from the yard where it leaves the lock to return to its wharf, with deductions for any delays occasioned by the fault of the party of the first part. During the time of employment the boats will be under the direction and subject to the orders of the engineer of the board, or other duly authorized agents. The party of the first part will also be required to furnish evidence that he is the owner of said boats, and that he has the capacity in case of accident, either to the boat or machinery, to repair the same, or that machinery or boat breaks down, to compensation will be made for the time that the boat is unable to work. Boat must be sent to the engineer fully equipped and manned with single crew, boat to remain continuously in service from April 15, 1919, to March 15, 1919, inclusive, under charter to the board. Each boat will be given a trial trip if required or must be furnished by the party of the first part without additional cost to the board. Each boat will be required to provide for the faithful performance of the contract by the party of the first part, and for the due performance of the work herein contracted for, the said party of the first part, and all laborers, shall give preference to citizens of the Commonwealth, and if they cannot be obtained in sufficient numbers, then to citizens of the United States, and to aliens who have declared their intention to become citizens. No laborer, workman or mechanic working within this Commonwealth by the day or employed by any contractor or other person doing or contracting to do the whole or any part of the work contemplated by the contractor, shall be required or permitted to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day. Every contract to which the state is a party, or which shall lodge, board and trade where and with whom he shall work, and shall not employ nor hire agents or employes who shall directly or indirectly require of any laborer, workman or mechanic therein that he shall trade at any particular place or with any particular person. The board reserves the right to reject any and all proposals or to accept any proposal which in its opinion is for the best interest of the Commonwealth. WILLIAM R. DE LASKIE COLE, Chairman, ELLERTON J. BROWN, WHITNEY L. EVERETT, C. BENTON, JOHN F. J. HURLEY, Metropolitan Park Commission; JOHN R. RADLIN, Engineer.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN NOVEMBER 8, 1918. BOSTON.

To the Boston Post

The AMERICAN presents its compliments to the Boston Post for the support which it gave to the Initiative and Referendum.

The Boston Post has the largest morning circulation not only in New England, but in America. When we consider the size of New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, we appreciate what an achievement in newspaper building that is for its editor, Mr. E. A. Grozier. The Boston AMERICAN is the largest evening paper in New England and the third largest in America. It is larger than all the other evening papers in Boston put together, just as the Post is larger than all the other morning papers in Boston put together.

Why are these things true of the Post and AMERICAN? It is because these two papers constitute themselves the watchdogs of the interests of the great majority and espouse those interests whenever they need advocacy; and because that majority has the intelligence to know and to appreciate its friends.

While practicing honesty because it is right in itself, both these papers have learned the truth of the old adage that "honesty is the best policy."

Bay State Democrats in the United States Senate

It will seem a little strange to have Massachusetts represented in the United States Senate by a Democrat spelled with a large D. It is the first time since the Civil War. But it is not, however, the first time that Massachusetts has been represented by a democrat spelled with a small d. Charles Sumner was such a man, and Senator Hoar was half way between.

It must also be remembered that a great many Republicans are just as good democrats as the best Democrats. The progressive Republicans from the far West can give many a man who professes himself to be a Democrat cards and spades and beat him in the game of real democracy. In Massachusetts those thousands of Republicans who voted for the Initiative and Referendum are likewise good democrats. This is fortunate for the nation.

Most of our legislation calculated to correct the abuses which have followed in the wake of the enormous and dangerous concentration of wealth in the hands of a few has been carried "over the top" and over the entrenchments of organized privilege by the united forces of real democrats in both the Republican and Democratic parties.

It is unfortunate, however, that in New England the combination of manufacturing and public service corporation interests have used the Republican organization to represent them, and have kept in the United States Senate from New England men who could be depended upon, through thick and thin, to support their interests, however detrimental they might be to the general welfare.

Give Your Hearty Support to United War Work Drive

The United War Work drive will begin very soon.

This drive is to secure funds for a number of associations which have heretofore made separate drives for funds, but which are now all united in a single effort.

The work that they are doing is beyond praise.

It is because of these associations, which include the Catholic and Jewish charities, the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations, the Salvation Army, the American Library Association and the War Camp Community Service, that the men who are fighting for victory in France and Belgium have found ease and comfort where otherwise they would have found but the sternest of war conditions.

Any soldier who has returned from the front will tell you how much the boys over there have been helped by these associations.

Men and women have left lucrative positions in America to go to the fighting front to minister to the soldiers, wearing the brassards of these organizations.

Camps and canteens have been established, cigarettes and sweets have been distributed in enormous quantities, all the comforts that are craved by the soldier heart have been provided.

Incidentally, through these organizations closer touch has been maintained between the soldiers fighting at the front and their loved ones at home.

The sacrifices that have been made by the men and women engaged in this noble work have only been surpassed by the sacrifices of the soldiers themselves.

For such a tremendous enterprise money is required, and a great deal of money.

Whether peace is to come soon or late, many soldiers will remain in Europe, many soldiers wearing the khaki of Uncle Sam, and the work of these organizations must continue as long as an American soldier remains overseas.

The American people have responded splendidly to Liberty Loan campaigns and to Red Cross drives.

They have responded as splendidly to the calls of the United War Work associations in the past, and we know that their response in this particular drive will be as generous.

Every cent that is devoted to this drive will go directly to the help of the boys in France—your boy perhaps. It will do more for him than you could possibly do for him by your own direct donations, for the government is behind the associations and will see that their help is given swiftly.

Subscribe to this drive, fellow citizens, and you are subscribing to the aid of the men who are fighting and winning for you the greatest battle for liberty that has taken place in the history of the world.

The Peace Table

Comments of Boston Newspapers on the I. and R. Victory

MacFarland and the I. & R.

The success of the Initiative and Referendum stands out in exceptional degree as a personal triumph of Mr. Grenville S. MacFarland, the editor of the Hearst newspapers here. But for his active and insistent propaganda, we doubt if Massachusetts people would to any large extent have perceived their need of this change in their constitutional structure. But he was able to make it impossible for a Democrat to oppose the I. and R. and live under the imputations which such a course of action suggested, and in addition he was able to gather behind him a number of Republicans who are habitually looking, in the words of the epistle, for "some new thing."

The Initiative and Referendum fills an important place in the thoughts of the mentally unemployed, or rather of those whose minds are not operating to capacity. A majority of the delegates to the convention, through Mr. MacFarland's strategy, were elected in such a way that they dared not open their minds to any real consideration of the question, but felt obligated to vote for what was set before them. They were encouraged to do this by the specious argument that they should put it up to the dear people to decide, but once the delegates had done this, the designers of the scheme treated the convention's decision as a recommendation, and in effect asked the public if it was to repudiate so wise and momentous a conclusion.

As a result we have the I. and R. It is a monument to the literary energy and political strategy of Mr. Grenville S. MacFarland. —Boston Herald.

The vote on the Initiative and Referendum was sufficiently strong in the State to show that there was a preponderance of sentiment for it, especially when it is considered that the campaign in opposition was extremely well organized and handsomely financed. The credit for this victory is due to Grenville S. MacFarland, who has fought for this change for fifteen years. He initiated the campaign, was the brains and directing genius of the fight during this time up to and through the Constitutional Convention and in the election.—Boston Post.

BE INDEPENDENT, IN THE RIGHT WAY

Don't sell your independence for the sake of popularity.

Don't work contrary to your good judgment to win favor, as you think.

Have a standard of business of your own.

So conduct your affairs that you fear no man's accusing finger.

No matter who tries to break your set principles of right, as you see the right, show that you have the courage to back up your convictions.

Stand firmly on the foundation of truth and honesty and thereby keep the most valuable possession you can have—a clear conscience.

You may not have much in a worldly way, but that right feeling in your heart is what counts, because it is the true avenue to real enjoyment.

If you beat a man on a deal and make a few dollars and you are constantly thinking about your dishonesty and are compelled to listen to the loud whispers of a pricking conscience, of what real value is the financial gain you sought and made?

This is an age when we are fighting for universal freedom, but what is an outward freedom worth if bound, tooth and nail, by fear of exposure when least expected or desired?

Honest-to-goodness independence is what we are after.

I KNOW a mother.
WHOM I'M quite sure
THINKS SHE'S a very good mother.
AND MAYBE she is.
AND, ANYWAY,
SHE HAS a nice little girl.
WITH BRIGHT blue eyes.
AND GOLDEN hair.
AND FULL of life.
AND WHERE she lives,
THE OTHER children
PLAY ON a common.
ACROSS THE street.
AND SO far as I know.
THEY'RE ALL nice children.
BUT WHETHER they are.
OR WHETHER they're not.
THIS FRIEND of mine.
WITH THE bright blue eyes.
AND THE golden hair.
DOESN'T PLAY with them.
BECAUSE MOTHER says,
THAT THEY'RE all too rough.
AND DIRTY their clothes.
AND WHEN she goes out.
THIS LITTLE girl.
SHE IS all dressed up.
AND JUST goes for a walk,
AND COMES home again,
AND STANDS very still.
IN A window place.
AND GAZES out.
AND ACROSS the street
AND I'VE seen her there.
AND I'VE watched her face.
AND ALL of the games.
THAT THE children play.
I'VE SEEN her play.
IN HER big blue eyes.
AND ONE of the girls.
WHO LIVES nearby.
HAS THE friendliest dog
THAT YOU ever saw.
AND THE big blue eyes.
OF MY little friend.
JUST BRIGHTEN up.
LIKE A couple of stars.
WHEN THEY go by.
BUT MOTHER says,
THAT SHE mustn't like dogs.
BECAUSE SOMETIMES they bite.
AND THEY always bark.
AND THEY'RE dirty things.
AND SHE mustn't like cats.
BECAUSE MOTHER hates cats.
AND ANY nice little girl.
SHOULD BE satisfied.
WITH HER family of dolls.
AND THIS little girl.
IS SUCH a good little girl.
THAT SHE never complains.
AND SHE never cries.
BUT JUST stands there.
IN HER window place.
AND GAZES out.
AND ACROSS the street.
AT THE rough little kids.
AND THE soiled little kids.
WHO PLAY with dogs.
AND MAYBE with cats.
AND RUIN their clothes.
AND ARE scolded well.
WHEN THEY get home.
AND ARE all washed up.
AND AFTER dinner.
ARE KISSED good-night.
AND TUCKED away.
AND MOTHER tells dad.
THAT IT'S perfectly awful.
HOW CHILDREN ruin clothes.
AND DAD just smiles.
I THANK you.

AFRAID OF AN AUTO? THIS IS FOR YOU

By Winifred Black

THE timid woman has come back from her pleasure trip to the mountains.

And she had a perfectly lovely time—just "elegant" every minute. I know she did because she told me so herself.

This is what she said about it:

"You know, my dear, I'd rather die than put my foot into an automobile, and as for riding behind a pair of horses—horrors!

"But Thomas was determined to go and he wouldn't go a step without me. I cried and cried and Thomas said:

"'Now, honey, you don't want me to go up there in the mountains and be killed alone, do you, and leave you all by yourself? If we've got to be killed we want to die together, don't we?'

"And I said, 'Yes, of course.' And then he kissed me and said I'd promised and so we went.

"The night before we started I went down to church and had a special service said for me. We had to catch the 7 o'clock boat, and at 5 o'clock I was up saying my prayers.

"All the way over in the boat I prayed, and when the machine started I never stopped praying a minute.

Prayed Every Minute

"There were two motors full of us, and I was the only one that didn't scream once all the way.

"We went over deep, awful gulches, and across great, horrid bridges, and up terrible scarey roads and round corners that just made you gasp, and I never spoke and I never screamed—I never even whispered.

"I prayed every single minute.

"Thomas says he's certainly going to believe in prayer after this."

And the fun of it is that she never smiled while she was saying it, and she really does think that she had a perfectly lovely time every minute of the two weeks she was gone. I wonder what kind of a time Thomas had.

I'd like to look into Thomas' mind and see just what it was that made him want to drag that poor creature across bridges and over ravines and around awful corners, and up fiendish mountains.

Why didn't he go himself, and have the fun of it, and leave her in peace—at home?

I rather like Thomas for wanting her to go, don't you? He's been married to Susan for over twenty years and he must have known just exactly what kind of time he was going to have. Isn't he marvellous to you?

He is to me, and yet, somehow, I wonder about him.

You know the way it is with actors—when an actor is a little man he always engages little people to play in the company with him, for if he can't the villain or the comedian would be taller than he is, even the heroine might look taller from the front of the house, and that would never, never do.

Courage by Comparison

I wonder if Thomas is just the least little bit timid himself and likes to have some one with him who makes him feel brave—and fine—and noble—and superior?

I know two women who are great friends; one of them tall and stunning, and the other is little and appealing.

There isn't a thing in common between them, and they're both rather self-conscious, knowing persons. I've often noticed that the tall woman seems to feel particularly vigorous and athletic and stunning when she has her little, delicate friend along. And as for the little woman, every step she takes when she's with the big woman, she gets littler and more clinging and more timid and more appealing.

SHOULD A GIRL OBEY HER HEART?

Stella Rascon's middle-aged, commonplace, narrow uncle and aunt thought they knew Stella's heart better than she herself did, and they tried to marry her to a man she did not love. They thought they were acting for her own good. Stella thought otherwise. So she took the reins in her own hands. Just how this all came about—and what followed—constitute the fascinating story of Elinor Glyn's new running in this paper, "Did She Do Right?" Of course you are reading it. Now for a War Education. What Does War Mean? The Answer Is Coming

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1918.

What should be the last great attempt at world domination ends in failure—as all the other attempts ended. And this year, next year, the year after, the world will learn what war really means, what it costs and that every nation pays its part of the war bill.

There will be changes of power, many of them, outside of Germany and Austria, as well as inside.

The ordinary people have paid for the war, with their blood.

They intend to have something to say about world government, now killing has stopped.

In Germany you will see a struggle for rulership between the Kaiser, if he survives, and some such man as Liebknecht, the Socialist.

A few day ago, on his release from prison, Liebknecht said, "I stand before you a branded criminal, emerging from a felon's cell, to bid you be of good cheer. The twilight of the divine right of kings betokens the dawn of the human rights of man."

In France, power will be with a government largely socialistic in its methods, and absolutely socialistic as regards many of the men in high office.

Such a man as Clemenceau would be called a Socialist in this country and his newspaper more than radical.

In England, Toryism retired into the background. The struggle will be between British labor party and advanced Liberals, like Lloyd George. It would be worth while for powerful individuals in America to read carefully the after-war program of the British labor party. A great deal of that program will be made reality. It is a program that would not suit those accustomed to rule in this country.

What will happen in Russia, cut off and locked in, no man can guess. Self-chosen "saviours of humanity" are killing each other like spiders corked up in a bottle. At the end one big spider will come out fattened on the others and powerful enough to control.

Austro-Hungary is a battlefield of hatred let loose by the failure of Empire and Monarchy. Those who have been down are up, lack of food makes the situation more horrible. There will be unpleasant days and months there.

In Italy, victorious after long years of working, there will come some unpleasant reckonings. The Italian government has been patient, enduring much without complaint. There will be in Italy some house cleaning that will interest the world, if active minds have their way.

Here, the people do well to rejoice, parade and ring bells. As little Belgium saved the world at the beginning of the war, with her marvelous resistance, so the wealth and power of the United States made the work of salvation complete at the end after the war. This country has done good work well, quickly and unselfishly. But it must pay its share of the war bill.

It also has its problems, with this disadvantage, that they are not generally recognized, outside of a few thoughtful men in the administration, including the President, no plan has been made to meet them.

The intelligence of finance that largely controls the country does not know that the problems exist. The realization will come.

Fortunately, this country has spent only a small sum comparatively—some thirty-odd thousand millions. Thirty thousand millions is only about three hundred dollars for every man, woman and child in the United States.

A healthy negro slave was worth one thousand dollars—you would have had to pay that to his owner to give the slave his freedom.

Three hundred dollars apiece is, after all, not so big a price to pay for freedom for each inhabitant of this country.

This country can afford what has happened as regards money, and fortunately the loss in life has been comparatively small. Plenty of common sense, top and bottom, are needed for the problems that are coming now; wages coming down, stock prices going up, a few made gigantically rich, millions facing the anxiety of lack of employment and lower pay.

War is a terrific fire while it burns, you do not realize the damage. Now the fire is out and the world will learn slowly what has happened. It is not going to be pleasant learning. Business men will put their houses in order. Workingmen and women, many of them, will continue to get good pay for some weeks or months. They should save all they can for the times that are coming.

A dollar in peace is as important to the citizen as a bullet to the soldier in war.
